MAY ROBERTS' ORD. STRONG

G.N. RAILS RISE ON BETTER TRAFFICS

Although trading was not quite so brisk on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday business in local securities was of fairly good dimensions and Industrials attracted further support, which resulted in a few features of strength. British Industrials were livelier, but the trend wa. rather easier.

Apart from 4½ p.c. Land Bonds, which drooped to 112⅜, Home Government Funds were again well maintained and the Fourth National Loan recovered to 102. British Funds were quietly easier, with 3½ p.c. War Loan 101½. Corporation issues showed little life and Banks where dealt in were unchanged. Guinness units opened firmer, but after active dealings they slipped back to 72s. 6d. The Pref. improved to 14½ and Power Pref. were buyers without effect at 13s. 3d. Great Northern Rails were buyers on the continued improvement in the weekly traffics. The Ord. rose to 3½ and the Guar. gained a point, while the Deb. held 50. Great Southern Deb. was lowered to 43.

May Roberts (Ireland) Ord. on the recent demand jumped 4s. 9d. to 45s. and Merchants Warehousing Ord. were raised 5s. 3d. to 45s. J. G. Mooney Deb. spurted three points to 103 and Crean Pref. advanced a further 1s. at 19s. Cement Ord., Clondalkin Paper Ord., Pye (Ireland) Ord. and Sunbeam Wolsey Ord. all held steady. Imperial Tobaccos changed hands at 105s. 3d. and Coats Ord. eased to 30s. 6d. Dunlop Rubbers eased to 33s. and Imperial Chemical Ord. to 28s. 9d. Woolworth Ord. quoted 58s. 6d., Powell Duffryn Ord. 12s. 6d., Consett Iron Ord. 6s. 4½d. and Colville Ord. 20s. 1½d.

LONDON

WAGES QUESTION HITS RAILS

KAFFIRS HAD A DISMAL DAY

Several sections of the London Stock markets attempted to regain their recent firmness yesterday, but, while sentiment was assisted by the view that still more investment money will be employed during the next few weeks as a result of the latest Treasury call-up of U.S. Stocks, genuine buying interest showed little expansion, and prices generally continued to move somewhat erratically in the quiet conditions.

Nevertheless, Gilt-edged, which have already partly anticipated the payments to be made next week for the Canadian securities

An attitude of caution characterised transactions in the Industrial market, and a little fresh profit-taking sufficed to take numerous issues lower again.

British Rails assumed a dull tone, following the announcement that the three railway trade unions are immediately formulating claims for a further increase in wages.

The Mining departments revealed few noteworthy movements, and Oil Shares, in the absence of inquiry, were mostly allowed to relinquish the improvements marked on the previous day.

FUNDS FIRMER

The reappearance of investment support in the gilt-edged market had no material effect on quotations for British Funds, but the trend was distinctly firmer, and a slight advance to 101⅛ in Old War Loans assisted other issues to gain ground. Old Consols, Local Loans, and Conversion 3½ p.c. all finished higher, whilst Funding issues showed up particularly well at 112⅛. Foreign Bonds seldom attracted attention, but a firm feature was supplied by Egyptian Unified, which spurted 1¼ to 67¼.

Operators in the British Rail section were mostly in a selling mood, but prices managed to hold up well in places. Great Western 5 p.c. and Southern 5 p.c. were among the brighter issues, and the former put on a point to 83½, whilst the latter added ¼ to 83. Conversely, Southern Prefd. fell sharply to 46, and losses of ¼ occurred in both Great Western Ord. and L.M.S. Ord. Foreign Rails were notable for a resumption of activity in Cordoba Central issues, and the "B" stock put on no less than 2 to 56½.

Industrials were not entirely colourless, and an especially bright feature was supplied by Bass, which found support up to 114/6. Other Breweries were rathe. uncertain, however, and Guinness fell back to 73/6. Apart from a trifling decline in Woolworths the stores group held up well and Tobaccos were mainly firm. Electrical Equipments continued to find favour, and under the lead of English Electric which rose 1/- to 29/6, Associated Electric and Crompton made fresh progress.

Steel shares were still overshadowed by the disappointing Dorman Long figures, whilst the Shipping and Aircraft groups were affected by scattered liquidation. Most of the movements in Rayons and Textiles also were adverse, and Cable ord. reacted to 55⅛. Among miscellaneous leaders Dunlops, Chemicals, Tate and Lyle and Tripley were all easier.

The Kaffir section had a dismal time, with Far Western Rand issues rather offered. Western Holdings were 6d. lower at 8/9, Western Reefs also finished lower, and Blyvoors proved another dull spot at 6/6. Exceptionally. West Wits stiffened to 57/6, and a firm trend was noticeable in Brakpan. East Rand Props. and Geduld. Among Rhodesians, Chartereds attracted demand at 17/9, but the Copper issues had an easier appearance. Tin shares continued to move ahead on the dividends and outlook for the industry. In other directions West Africans lost ground, and dullness was noticeable in the Broken Hill issues.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

There were no developments of outstanding interest in yesterday's Money market. Both spot and forward quotations were unchanged at 23⅜d. per oz. and 23¼d. per oz. respectively. In Lombard Street money was in good supply, and the small demand for overnight loans which developed was easily satisfied, borrowers in outside quarters obtaining their needs at rates of ¾ to 1 p.c.

No interest was shown in the Foreign Exchange market, and rates were without material change.

STOCK EXCHANGE FEATURES

HALT TO RISE IN EQUITIES

MILLIONS OF POUNDS FOR RE-INVESTMENT

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Tuesday.

THE rise in Equities, which was the outstanding feature in the London Stock markets last week has been checked. Members on Monday appeared to have been subdued by the fuller reports of the heavy damage inflicted on Coventry by the German raiders, and were more inclined to give attention to the latest moves in the diplomatic field. Further, the Iron, Steel and Engineering market in particular was depressed by the disappointing results announced by Dorman, Long and Co., as, in spite of what must have been an enormous expansion in turnover, the heavy taxation resulted in a drop in net profits and a cut in the Ordinary dividend.

ACTIVITY RESTRAINED

There has been a moderate amount of profit-taking, but dealers state that any stock offered has been quickly absorbed. Generally where prices have declined the fall has been small in comparison with the recent rise, and some sections—notably Brewery, Electrical Equipment, Tea and Rubber descriptions—have remained firm.

To-day activity has been restricted by unconfirmed reports from foreign newspapers that Bulgaria has agreed to allow German troops to pass through the country in order to attack Greece.

There has, however, been no setback in prices of Investment Securities. British Government issues are quiet at the moment, but there was to-day a further adjustment in the yield on many Home Corporation stocks, and British Dominion Government and Corporation securities continue to be marked up. This is because of the knowledge that large amounts of money will shortly be available for re-investment.

VESTING ORDERS

As mentioned recently, November 26 will see the payment for the Canadian securities "called up" by the Treasury. Estimates of the sum involved vary from £40,000,000 to £50,000,000, and, although much of this will probably be re-invested for patriotic reasons in 2½ per cent. National War Bonds and 3 per cent. Defence Bonds, some holders who cannot afford the reduction in income which such a course may entail will buy other issues giving a larger yield. This payment will be followed on December 1 by the disbursement of half-yearly interest on the 3½ per cent. War Loan. Now comes the news that the Treasury has made a new vesting order acquiring further holdings of American securities. The securities listed (numbering 177) are those already covered by the vesting orders made in February and April last, but the holdings now acquired are those which have been registered since.

A FURTHER ADVANCE

It is impossible even to guess at the value of the additional dollar stocks covered by the latest vesting order, although it will probably be much smaller than the sum involved in the first two orders. It will, however, almost certainly mean the release of more sterling for re-investment, some of which may go into securities other than National War and Defence Bonds. As the market of high-class stocks remains small, a further appreciation in market values seems almost certain, provided no serious setback occurs in the Near East to the Allied cause.

BUYERS TIMID ON WALL STREET

INTEREST FOCUSSED ON AXIS MOVES

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Wall Street stiffened in the afternoon, but buyers were timid and changes were mostly fractional either way, as the feverish diplomatic moves of the Axis were very closely watched. Meanwhile, in connection with possible new British liquidation of American securities, the opinion is held that more determined attempts to revise the Johnson Act would be seen if London's need to increase dollar balances is very urgent.

The turnover of 700,000 shares comprised 804 stocks, of which 238 were higher, 353 were lower and 213 remained unchanged.

Atchison Topeka strengthened, following the declaration of a dividend of $1.00—the first payment since 1937. Pleasing dividends were a sustaining factor, but the market was quiet and mostly fractions either way.

The close was irregular.—(Reuter.)

England versus The Rest

"Curiouser and curiouser," said Alice on a famous occasion; and it would be interesting to hear that charming little lady's remarks if she could snatch a glimpse of Europe's topsy-turvydom to-day. Since the Greeks upset Italy's plans in the Epirus and began to display fighting qualities comparable to those shown by the Finns a year ago, there has been remarkable activity in the diplomatic world. Important personages, with their retinues, have been dashing all over the continent in special trains; there have been secret meetings here, there and elsewhere, and the European newspapers have been "featuring" these various instances of peripatetic diplomacy to the virtual exclusion of war news from the Greek front. Field-Marshal Goering's newspaper, the National Zeitung of Essen, is refreshingly frank regarding the object of all these excursions: it is to constitute a coalition of all Europe against Great Britain. History is repeating itself with almost uncanny accuracy. Little more than a century ago the great Napoleon also set out to create a continental bloc against England, and it is a strange coincidence that he controlled almost precisely the area of Europe that is controlled by the "Axis" Powers to-day. It is not easy to keep track of the visits and counter-visits that are being paid at present. Yesterday Count Ciano and Herr von Ribbentrop arrived almost simultaneously in Vienna, each with his special train and his imposing suite. To-day the two representatives of the "Axis" will confer with Count Teleki and Count Csaky, respectively Premier and Foreign Minister of Hungary, and it is reported in Berlin that Hungary's place in the "New Order" will be fixed at the meeting. It seems that Rumania's place already has been fixed as a result of General Antonescu's recent conversations with Signor Mussolini. Apparently there has been some hitch in the arrangements in respect of Spain; for Berlin spokesmen announce that her place in the "New Order" will not be fixed until after Señor Suñer shall have made his report to General Franco on his return from Germany. Slovakia, which is a German Protectorate, already is marching in step with the "Axis" Powers, and the visit to Berchtesgaden of King Boris of Bulgaria suggests that the Balkan Kingdom also is prepared to take her place with the totalitarian States. There was a rumour yesterday that King Leopold of the Belgians might pay a visit to the Berghof at Herr Hitler's invitation. Monsieur Pierre Laval, the French Vice-Premier, also is expected to appear one of these days in Berlin. Manifestly a determined attempt is being made by Herr Hitler and his Italian colleague to mobilise as many continental States as possible against the British. The Berlin newspapers already are making no secret of their delight at the success which hitherto has attended the Fuehrer's efforts, and are looking forward to the day when Great Britain will be isolated completely in the Atlantic Ocean.

The only States of importance which remain outside the "Axis" group—with the exception of Sweden and Switzerland—are Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece. Regarding Greece, of course, there can be no question; she is at war with the Italians, and is putting up a surprisingly good fight. Yugoslavia is in a difficult position. She finds herself between the upper and the nether millstones; her Government, like Agag, must walk delicately. The Yugoslavs have declared their complete neutrality, which, indeed, is their only feasible policy. The invasion of Greece has caused them acute embarrassment; but they will do all in their power to keep out of the war. Turkey holds the key position in South-Eastern Europe. If the Germans should decide to attack Syria and Palestine in a drive towards the Suez Canal, they must march through Turkish territory; and the feeling in Ankara yesterday was that the "Axis" Powers' diplomatic activity during recent weeks has been in part the beginning of a Nervenkrieg against the Turks. In an interview which he gave in Berlin last evening, Herr von Papen, the German Ambassador to Ankara, declared that Commissar Molotoff's visit to Berlin had made a rapprochement between Turkey and the "Axis" a matter of urgency for the Turks. The Turks, for their part, assert that they have no fear of a war of nerves—that they are well able to look after themselves, and that they will accept political dictation from nobody. Herr von Papen is an experienced diplomatist, whose missions have not been invariably successful. He knows that Turkey will be a hard nut to crack, and that hitherto her leaders have shown no sign of repentance for their alliance with Great Britain. He may be trusted to leave nothing undone in his efforts to swing Ankara into line with the "Axis"; but we should imagine that the Turkish attitude will be determined in the final analysis not by the incidence of a Nervenkriey, nor by any amount of diplomatic cajolery, but solely and simply by the military and naval developments in the Mediterranean. There is no sentiment in modern politics. The Turkish resolve to remain outside the "Axis" group has been strengthened by the recent exploit of the British Fleet Air Arm at Taranto, as well as by the vigour of the Greeks' resistance to the Italian invasion; and, unless and until the Italians march into Salonika, her policy will not be likely to change. Everything—or almost everything—depends, therefore, on the immediate outcome of Italy's campaign. The Greeks are short of modern equipment; and are crying out for more aircraft both from Great Britain and from the United States. The British have promised to give them all the assistance in their power. Mr. Churchill and his colleagues are fully alive to the strategic importance of Greece in the Mediterranean scheme of things; and they realise that Great Britain's control of the Eastern Mediterranean well may depend on the results of the campaign in the Epirus.

Fore!

Golfers, instead of rejoicing in the tremendous popularity of their game, are complaining that the courses—around Dublin, anyway—are congested. In most sports the players are eloquent in their appeals for the recruitment of further addicts. Every man's game, in his opinion, is the best of all games and he seeks to win the interest of his friends. Councils of management and secretaries are delighted when they may boast of the growth in the number of their adherents. "The more the merrier" used to be as true of virtually any sporting activity as it was true in regard to anything else. Golf to-day is an exception. When additions to the supporters of games are reflected chiefly in gate receipts, when the vast majority of the followers are spectators, not players, then the only restriction upon expanding interest is that imposed by grand-stands and enclosures. It is different with games that are played, not watched, by the people concerned, and golf is such a game. It is a game, furthermore, that cannot be played in comfort unless the players have fields, so to speak, of elbow room. A course that might seem to an untutored onlooker to contain only a few score of widely scattered groups of players might seem to those players to be swarming with golfers—in front, exasperatingly slow golfers who prevented the game from proceeding at a reasonable pace; behind, discourteously impatient, fast golfers who prevented the game from being played with dignity and decency. Congestion of this type apparently is the rule every Saturday and Sunday on the links convenient to the metropolis. Our Golfing Correspondent last week suggested in an article that some of the congestion was caused by four-ball matches. The speed of any match must be that of the slowest player, and three players may be held up—along with the matches immediately behind—by a "duffer" who would be much less of a nuisance if he were playing by himself or with one other companion. The "four-ballers," however, think that the congestion would be eased if only four-ball matches were permitted on busy days. They say that if twenty-four players are golfing in six groups of four they are going to get in each other's way much less than if they were golfing in twelve groups of two. The logic of that argument is more apparent than real, is the reply of the opponents of four-ball games. We have received a number of letters, some not intended for publication, in support of our correspondent's article. On the other hand, we published a letter yesterday from a club member who laid the blame for the congestion on the shoulders of the women golfers. Would he ban the woman golfer, restrict her to a course of her own, separate wife from husband, sister from brother, sweetheart from sweetheart, and take away some of the most charming colour that brightens both links and club-house? In forty-four clubs in Leinster there are, roughly, 4,500 women; in Ireland there are 10,000. We cannot imagine their quiet acceptance of any plan to exclude them from golf. However, it is not our purpose to take sides with any of the controversialists. We merely suggest that Dublin obviously needs more golf courses.

Clothes from the Sea

It was announced last week in Bradford that Professor J. B. Speakman, head of the Department of Textile Industries at Leeds University, has discovered how to make a new rayon fabric from seaweed. This discovery comes as the result of over two years' experimental research, and the result must have exceeded even the professor's own expectations. The essential feature about this new fabric is that it is completely non-inflammable. When soaked in petrol and ignited, the petrol burns away and leaves the fabric totally unaltered. There have been many discoveries in recent years of similar fabrics which will not burn. One of the latest of these discoveries was the method by which it is possible to manufacture thread from glass. This thread can be woven into very beautiful and completely fireproof fabric. Until Professor Speakman's discovery, however, all non-inflammable fabrics—such as that made from glass—have been inaccessible to the man-in-the-street by virtue either of the scarcity of the raw materials or of the high cost of the necessary manufacturing process. Seaweed is inexpensive, and is easily obtained anywhere in these islands, and to have one's raw materials close at hand—especially in time of war—surely will decrease the cost of the fabric. Another of the advantages of this material is that, according to the professor, it is possible to vary its dyeing properties, its strength, and its lustre by modification in manufacture. It hardly seems possible that such a material could be derived from mere seaweed, but the long list of uses to which it has been put already would indicate that it is one of the most adaptable raw materials in the world. It is used in the fertilisation of the ground; here in Ireland seaweed enables the Aran farmers to grow crops on their barren fields. In other countries it has been used as a material to provide stuffing for furniture upholstery, to clarify beverages, to build dykes, to size textiles, to prepare glues, to manufacture paper, to provide food for animals. Some varieties are used for medicinal purposes, as in the manufacture of iodine, and other varieties—as, for example, Irish moss—can be used as human food. It is possible that there are many more uses to which seaweed could be put, and that these uses will be discovered after further research. Although seaweed is the oldest form of vegetation and the only form which is found over three-quarters of the earth's surface, it was not until a few years ago that man discovered so many of its possibilities.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

SHELTER AND DEBRIS

In a leading article to-day The Times remarks:—The suggestions of Lord Horder's Committee, with some account of the Government action in this matter, have now been officially issued. It must be recalled that the Committee were concerned only with questions of public health arising out of the improvisation of shelters, their congestion, their use night after night as dormitories, rather than as temporary refuges. There are, of course, many other questions of security which rather concern departments other than the Ministry of Health, but which have a great bearing upon the health of those who use the shelters; but it is significant that the Committee's first recommendation is that the "utmost degree of dispersal" should be secured. Every authority who has considered this matter from the point of view, both of health and of security, has been forced to the conclusion that dispersal is a more practical form of protection than the construction of deep shelters. Indeed, now that the tube stations are in general use for this purpose—another suggestion of the Committee's—the urgency of the constructing deep shelters has been diminished, and it is certainly no prejudice against deep shelters or their existence which has allowed the Minister for Home Security to call for the construction of spurs to the tubes as—at least in London—the only practical means of increasing the amount of deep shelter accommodation.

Most of these suggestions of the Committee clearly date from some little time ago, but some are more recent, and the Committee continue in session. Broadly speaking, they are in favour of finding out every possible existing form of shelter, making the most general possible use of the accommodation thus discovered, and rendering it as comfortable and as sanitary as possible. Preliminary steps on all their suggestions have been taken, and, no doubt, considerable improvement has been effected in a great many places. At the same time, everyone who has personal experience of a large number of shelters will agree that many of them remain quite unfit for human use. Though the Committee say that the provision of seating is unnecessary, there can be no excuse for the continued absence of any but the most primitive lighting, and even improvised sanitation or reasonable flooring; nor is there any excuse for the presence in these shelters of aged and infirm people who cannot, or will not, be looked after, nor for allowing people to make permanent homes in odd corners. Sanitary masks, though not to be despised as a protection against some forms of infection, are no real substitute for sanitary conditions.

D.U. MISSION TO CHOTA NAGPUR

The annual sale in aid of the Dublin University Mission to Chota Nagpur will be held in the C.M.S. Hall, 35 Molesworth street, from 12.30 p.m. to 6 p.m. to-day and to-morrow. Lady Maffey has kindly consented to open the sale to-day at 3 p.m., when Canon Oulton, D.D., Chairman of the Committee, will preside. This year, the jubilee year of the Mission, the Committee and the stallholders alike are faced with great and many difficulties owing to war conditions. It is earnestly hoped, therefore, that all friends of the Mission will make a special effort to attend, and to purchase even more liberally than ever. Lunches and teas are provided, and donations, either in money or in kind, will be most gratefully received by any of the stallholders or by members of the Committee.

A RATIONAL ATTITUDE

The Catholic attitude to ethnological and sociological matters was an essentially rational one, but not rationalistic—that was to say, reason received its due, but at the same time recognised the limitations imposed by revealed truth, said the Very Rev. Dr. Taylor, O.Carm., M.A., when lecturing yesterday in the Central Catholic Library, Dublin, on "The Catholic Approach to the Modern World."

The Rev. S. J. Brown, S.J., presided.

LONDON LETTER

NEW DEVICES TO COPE WITH RAIDERS

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
Tuesday Night.

LONDON had an unusual night last night, for, though bombers were frequently heard droning overhead, they seemed to be flying at a greater height than recently. There were four warning signals during the night more than on any previous occasion, and it was obvious that only a few machines had been able to get through the defences, which were being assisted by new devices to cope with the night-raider menace. Various new methods of checking the activities of the bombers are to be employed in addition to those tried so far. Already a certain amount of success has been achieved, for it has been noticeable that the German raiders have changed the route by which they enter the London area, and they are avoiding the places where certain defensive apparatus has caused them trouble. During the four alert periods into which last night was divided bombs fell in only one London district in the earlier part of the night, while later four bombs in another district caused no casualties and no damage.

Clearing the Streets

The members of the Military Pioneer Corps, who have been working on the clearing-up of the bomb damage in London, are being reinforced by more soldiers. Several detachments of Royal Engineers are at work, and more are to follow, so that in the course of the next few days there will be thirteen thousand soldiers engaged on the work of making good the damage caused by high explosive and incendiary bombs. The Military Pioneer Corps are mainly employed in the clearance of wreckage and making the roadways fit for traffic again, while the Royal Engineers are repairing the damage to telephone lines and doing much other useful work, so that London's essential services such as water, gas and electric supplies are maintained. One of the first jobs of the Royal Engineers was to build a bridge which is carrying motor 'buses and other traffic across a crater described as large enough to hold two ordinary houses in the West End. There is much more work for them to do, and there may be a considerable increase in the number of soldiers employed on the clearance of London before long.

Italian Aircraft

The performances of Italian aircraft in the war so far tend to show that the machines are not particularly suitable for operations against the Royal Air Force in this country, however well they may have performed in Spain and Abyssinia. Altogether the Regia Aeronautica, or Royal Italian Air Force, employs about thirty different types of aircraft, including seaplanes and one type of flying boat, and this multiplicity will be a distinct hindrance in operations over this country from bases in Northern France, since the number of spare parts required is in proportion to the number of different types employed. In Britain, where our machines are operating from their home bases, the employment of several types is not such a handicap, since the question of the transport of spare parts is not a difficult matter. Italy may be forced to concentrate on one or two types of fighters and bombers, and this will reduce the number of machines which can be used against this country. The Italian bombers of the newest type can carry a fair load, but they are not so heavily armed as British bombing aircraft, and in raids on this country they will need a good deal of protection by fighters. Of the fighters the Fiat 50 and the Macchi 200 may be used to protect the bombers. Both are single-seater monoplanes, with two heavy machine guns firing forward. They are not particularly speedy, but have a reputation for being handy craft. The top speeds are 305 and 313 miles per hour respectively.

Tube Shelter Conditions

The 150,000 people who spend their nights in the London tubes are finding a great change for the better in the conditions. At first no refreshments of any description could be obtained, but to-day eleven stations have been equipped with apparatus for supplying hot tea, coffee and cocoa and light refreshments, and the number will be increased to fifty within the next week or two. The Lord Mayor of London gave £20,000 from his Air Raid Distress Fund, and Lord Woolton, who is distributing this amount, has spent £15,000 on equipment for the tube canteens. The railway authorities are co-operating, and special trains, known as refreshment specials, are being run. They make a stop of thirty seconds at each station, and during that time containers filled with buns and cakes are unloaded, and the previous night's empties are loaded. These results have only been made possible by the co-operation and active assistance of the Lord Mayor, the Food Controller, Lord Ashfield, the London Transport Chairman, Lord Horder, and a host of other willing workers, including a thousand girls, who distribute the food to the shelterers.

HUNGARY MAY SIGN AXIS PACT

WIDENING OF NEW DIPLOMATIC MOVE

New Talks in Vienna To-Day

KING LEOPOLD AND HITLER RUMOUR

NEW Axis plans in the "All Europe against England" movement came to light yesterday, when, after the meeting of King Boris and Hitler on Sunday and the talks with Ciano and Suñer on Monday, it was announced that Ribbentrop, German Foreign Minister, will have conversations in Vienna to-day with Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister and Counts Teleki and Csaky, the Hungarian Premier and Foreign Minister, says Reuter and Associated Press.

There was a rumour in Berlin yesterday that King Leopold of Belgium had been received by Hitler at the Berghof yesterday, but, so far, the rumour has not been confirmed.

It was claimed in Berlin last night that Hungary's place in the coalition will be fixed at to-day's meeting in Vienna, as Spain's position was fixed at the conference between Hitler and Suñer, and Rumania's by General Antonescu's meeting with Mussolini.

In Rome yesterday it was suggested that Bulgaria and Rumania would join the Axis movement, and that Spain's decision would be made known after Suñer returned to Madrid.

According to a Berne despatch to New York, the belief is held there that King Boris told Hitler he would permit the passage of troops through Bulgaria for an Axis drive against Greece.

It was understood in Budapest that Slovakia had also been invited to participate in the meeting between the Axis Foreign Ministers and the Hungarians.

BULGARIA AND RUMANIA

The meetings in Vienna to-day between Ribbentrop and Count Ciano, the German and Italian Foreign Ministers, and Counts Teleki and Csaky, the Hungarian Premier and Foreign Minister, will be another move toward "the coalition of all Europe against England," Berlin Nazis triumphantly proclaimed last night, says Associated Press. Hungary's place in the scheme of things as planned by Hitler and Mussolini will then be fixed, as Spain's position was fixed by the conference with Hitler of Serrano Suñer, the Spanish Foreign Minister, and Rumania's by Premier Antonescu's visit to Mussolini, they said. The visit to Berlin of King Boris of Bulgaria was characterised by these Nazi sources as the opening of the examination of the problems of South-Eastern Europe.

Von Ribbentrop arrived in Vienna by special train about 5 p.m. yesterday and ten minutes later welcomed the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Ciano, when he stepped from his special train. The two Axis Ministers then drove through the town together to the accompaniment of cheers from people lining the streets.

KING BORIS'S VISIT

The resignation of the present Bulgarian Government, following concessions to Germany and a Nazi request for German troops to pass through Bulgaria, were among the possibilities which Nazi sources declared were being discussed in Sofia after Boris's visit to Berchtesgaden.

A Foreign Office spokesman in Budapest refused to discuss the purpose of the coming conference, but informed circles thought that Count Teleki and Count Csaky might discuss the possibility of Hungary joining the tripartite military and economic pact with Germany, Italy and Japan. It is understood that Slovakia had also been invited to participate in the meeting between Ribbentrop, Ciano and the Hungarians.

A Berlin despatch to the official Italian News Agency states that the interview which King Boris of Bulgaria had with Hitler "concerned the framework of political reorganisation in Europe."

SLOVAKIA AND YUGOSLAVIA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ZURICH, Tuesday.

Rumours are circulating in Berlin that representatives of Bulgaria and Slovakia, and possibly also Yugoslavia, will visit Vienna, where Ribbentrop and Ciano are to confer to-morrow with Count Teleki and Count Csaky.

The Berlin correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten says:—M. Laval, French Vice-Premier, is expected to visit Germany shortly. There are, so far, no comments available from Berlin about Hitler's interview with King Boris. The interview may possibly be connected with the supposition current among political observers at Zurich, that Germany is planning to interfere in the Italo-Greek war.

TURKEY AND THE NEW ORDER

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ANKARA, Tuesday.

Political circles in Ankara are now inclined to expect a new Axis campaign of pressure on Turkey as a sequel to the conversations between Hitler and M. Molotoff in Berlin. According to dispatch from Berlin, Papen, the German Ambassador to Turkey, has told foreign correspondents there that a rapprochement with the Axis Powers, as well as the complete restoration of friendly relations with the Soviet Union, has become an "urgent" problem for the Turks since M. Molotoff's visit.

He hinted that Germany and Italy would respect Turkish independence and the Soviet would abandon any claim to the Dardanelles if Turkey accepted the "new order," which would mean separating herself from Britain and acknowledging the right of the Axis to direct the policy of Europe.

Nothing has yet been said in Moscow to indicate that the Soviet Union is prepared to join with Germany and Italy in bringing pressure upon Turkey—and the Turks are still hopeful that Papen is taking too much for granted. In any event, Turkish political quarters stated to-day that they have full confidence in Turkey's ability to win any "war of nerves" which the Axis Powers care to start.

According to German circles in Turkey, there is no question of Germany intervening in the Italo-Greek conflict. The Mediterranean, they state, is Italy's "living space." But it is thought in Ankara that Germany's attitude is bound to change if Italy fares too disastrously.

"DEFINITE AGREEMENT REACHED"

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BASLE, Tuesday.

A definite agreement between Spain and the Axis Powers, leading to "some form of activity," may be daily expected, says the Rome correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten to-day.

The Berlin correspondent of the same paper says that the Wilhelmstrasse is exceedingly reticent with regard to the visit of Senor Suner, but in well-informed circles it is stated that the negotiations with Spain are now completed.

POSITION OF SPAIN

THE SUNER-HITLER CONVERSATIONS

MADRID, Tuesday.

The reserve surrounding the visit of Senor Suner to Germany has now been broken, says the Berlin correspondent of the Spanish E.F.E. Agency. "The great friendship between the Caudillo's Spain, the Fuehrer's Germany and the Duce's Italy is being emphasised," the correspondent says.

The same commentators, he added, stress that Britain has made every effort during the last two months to "chill the great friendship" uniting Spain and Germany, and has tried to divert Spain from her road by every means, including the threat of hunger.

At yesterday's conversations, he concludes, the whole question of Western Europe was carefully examined; "and when mentioning Western Europe it must be added that Spain not only occupies privileged Mediterranean positions, but is also one of the principal European Powers on the Atlantic."

"IMPORTANT EVENT" IN BULGARIA

ROME'S EXPECTATIONS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ZURICH, Tuesday.

Italian political circles and the Press expect an "important event" to take place in Bulgaria soon, according to a Rome message.

The Sofia Correspondent of the Giornale d'Italia says:—"Bulgaria has rapidly taken all measures to prepare the country for any eventuality."

HUNGARY MAY SIGN THE PACT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUDAPEST, Tuesday.

It is confirmed here that Count Teleki and Count Csaky, the Hungarian Prime Minister and Foreign Minister, will arrive in Vienna to-morrow. It is understood that they will add Hungary's signature to the Axis-Japan Pact. The two Ministers will probably return home on Thursday.

It is not expected that there will be any protocols to the Pact detailing military co-operation which might be expected to develop between Hungary and the Axis. In view of the existing co-operation such protocols would in any case be superfluous.

Signature of the Pact by Hungary would be a mere formality, it is thought, enabling the Germans to beat their propaganda big drum, and no change in the situation for Hungary is expected.

KING BORIS HOME FROM GERMANY

ANTI-JEWISH BILL REVIVED

"TIMES" TELEGRAM.

SOFIA, Tuesday.

It was officially announced this morning that King Boris of Bulgaria, accompanied only by one of his secretaries and the German Minister in Sofia, Von Richthofen, returned last night from "a private visit to Germany, where he called on Hitler." The King left Sofia on Friday night, and returned yesterday by aeroplane.

In official circles complete ignorance is professed about the Royal visit, which was kept secret and received with great surprise throughout the country.

"NO COMMITMENTS"

It may be assumed that King Boris went to Berchtesgaden on his own initiative, in order that he might personally receive full information of South-Eastern Europe. It may also be assumed that the King has not made any commitments, and it is widely believed that he explained that Bulgaria was not prepared to take any active military part in the Axis drive in the Balkans.

It is expected, however, that in the near future the Bulgarian Government will take certain measures so far as internal policy is concerned in order to please the Germans. The Anti-Jewish law, which was postponed in Parliament yesterday, has been hurriedly introduced again, and all other Parliamentary work has been set aside.

Permission has been granted for the export to Germany of foodstuffs, which are badly needed in Bulgaria itself, and the export of which had previously been forbidden.

TURKISH PAPERS SAY WAR IS NEAR

ANKARA, Tuesday.

Turkish newspapers to-day warned the nation that the danger of war was near, as the Turkish Ambassador to Germany conferred with General Ismet Inonu, the Turkish President, and other leaders.

The official Turkish News Agency quoted authoritative circles in Berlin as asserting that the Axis wanted to include Turkey in "Europe's new order," and also that Russia desired a naval base in the Persian Gulf. — Associated Press.

GOVERNMENT MAY RESIGN

There is a general belief that the Government will have to resign as soon as the anti-Jewish law has been passed by Parliament.

Whether Hitler asked for the free passage of German troops through Bulgaria cannot be known, but it seems certain that if such a possibility arose the Bulgarian Army would not offer any resistance. Official Bulgarian circles, however, do not believe that a German drive through the country is imminent, for it is argued that no signs of such a step are to be seen either in Rumania or Bulgaria.—(Copyright, per P.A.)

ANTONESCU TO SEE HITLER

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VICHY, Wednesday.

General Antonescu, the Rumanian dictator, is leaving for Berlin to-day and will be received by Hitler, says a Bucharest despatch. The aim of his visit is to "strengthen the bonds of friendship between the Reich and Rumania," it is added.

LATE NEWS

R.A.F. RAIDERS OVER GERMANY TO-DAY

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Wednesday.

Informed German sources stated early to-day that British bombers were over Germany and had attempted to attack Berlin. They were forced back, however, the Germans said.

Large scale aerial attacks against "war essential targets" in an unnamed city in the Midlands of England are going on at present, the same sources said.

GERMAN CLAIM ON BIRMINGHAM

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Wednesday.

Birmingham apparently suffered the same fate as Coventry, informed Germans said this morning, adding that thousands of bombs of all calibres were dropped on armament and supply centres in that city.

BAYONET ATTACK NEAR KORITZA

ATHENS, Tuesday.

To-night's communiqué from the Greek High Command states:—

"In the Koritza region our army ejected the enemy at the bayonet point from positions which they had defended fiercely.

"Among the Morava heights our offensive action continued with success. In the course of an aerial battle above the front eleven enemy 'planes were brought down. All our 'planes returned to base."

GERMAN RAIDERS DOWN

A Heinkel 111 bomber crashed in flames on the marshes at Beckton, Barking, early this morning. Its crew of five were trapped in the machine and killed.

NIGHT RAIDS ON BRITAIN

INTENSIVE ATTACK ON MIDLANDS TOWN

A big attack on the English Midlands was launched last night by German raiders. Wave after wave crossed the East coast in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire.

'Planes arriving at the rate of one a minute over one town did considerable damage to property. Three other Midland towns were attacked.

Liverpool had three raids, and air activity was reported also over other towns and over North-East Scotland, Wales and East Anglia.

London had one of its earliest night "alerts," but the attack was not particularly heavy, although bombs were dropped in various areas.

The following communiqué was issued last night by the British Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security:—

"During daylight hours to-day there has been scarcely any enemy activity over this country.

"The only bombs reported were dropped near a village in Kent, and these caused no damage or casualties."

The Northern Ireland Ministry of Public Security yesterday issued the following statement:—

"Enemy aircraft were over various districts in Northern Ireland during the hours of darkness.

"No bombs were dropped, and no incidents have been reported."

A German 'plane was brought down at Wolveygate during the Midlands raid to-night. It crashed in flames.

SHOOTING OF A DUNDALK GUARD

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

DUNDALK, Tuesday.

At Dundalk District Court to-day William Wykes, of Castletown, Dundalk, was remanded in custody, charged with the attempted murder of Garda Thomas Haverty by discharging a loaded firearm at him in or at the Imperial Hotel, Dundalk.

Superintendent McDonagh said that he got a statement from the injured Guard, and the doctor had advised him that in a week the man would be able to make a deposition. The Guard has yet to have an operation, and there are still two bullets in his body.

VAST GERMAN FACTORY

HEAVILY BOMBED BY R.A.F.

SEVERAL FIRES AND EXPLOSIONS

PRESS ASSOCIATION.

THE Royal Air Force chose a single target in Central Germany, and made a powerful attack on one of the most sensitive nerve centres of her industrial and military organisations on Monday night, states the British Air Ministry News Service.

"For about three hours, until just before midnight," says the News Service, "our heavy bombers were over the Leuna Synthetic Oil Works near Merseburg and not far west of Leipzig. This is a vast factory, consisting of about 150 manufacturing buildings for the production of synthetic petrol, chemical fertiliser and other by-products. Its many pipe lines are highly vulnerable and a bomb on one essential part of the works, such as the gas plant or the hydrogenation plant, may disorganise the whole concern for a considerable time, and do much to reduce the annual output of 400,000 metric tons.

WORKS ALIGHT

"Although the weather grew worse as our bombers flew over Germany they quickly found the target with its long rows of more than a dozen very high chimneys in a straight line. The first machine made a gliding attack and one pilot saw high explosive bombs burst on the target. Many large explosions followed and fires were caused by incendiaries. Another pilot observed several fires at the north end of the target. The pilots of aircraft which arrived later found that parts of the works were already burning well. After dropping their bombs they saw two big explosions and more fires. They included 'several good ones which burst with yellow flames and much smoke.'"

LIVELY DUBLIN MEETING

ANTI-VIVISECTION LECTURE INTERRUPTED

BEGUN with disorder, a meeting arranged by the Irish Union for the Abolition of Vivisection so ended in the Metropolitan Hall, Dublin, last night. Overturned chairs, some damaged in a stampede, were scattered on the floor when Civic Guards, shortly after 10 o'clock, cleared the place of its disturbing element, obviously an organised opposition of perhaps a couple of hundred young men.

At 7.30 the hall was almost full, and a crowd of men at the back were singing, hissing, blowing horns and whistling, and alternating these tactics by handclapping and igniting squibs, as slides were shown on the screen, with statements on vivisection.

The disturbance continued until ten minutes to eight, when Sir Valentine Grace announced that he had been asked to take the chair, but that on account of the hostile crowd present he would have nothing to do with it.

Mr. Bradford-England, barrister-at-law, agreed to take the chair, and said that he would assure fair play to any questioner at the end of the meeting, and he asked for fair play in return for Mr. Frank R. Nolan, who was to deliver an address.

Mr. Nolan began his address by describing vivisection as a cruel, useless and dangerous practice, and stating that he would give one or two instances of what was done in laboratories.

LIGHTS TURNED OFF

There was ironical laughter and cries of "Oh, oh," as the lecturer proceeded. As a steward went to the back of the hall people stood on chairs to see what was going on, and then someone switched off two of the lights. Boohs and songs prevailed, and a Civic Guard was sent for. Shouts of "Sit down" were unheeded, and yelling and noise continued.

A man at the front of the hall appealed for order, but the only response was the bang of a squib.

The man who had appealed for order said that he was speaking for the medical students of the city, and he had given Mr. Nolan his word that they would hear him. "Give him a hearing," he continued, "as you have given me a hearing in University College."

Mr. Nolan had resumed his address when there was an imitation of a bark, followed by laughter, and as he proceeded to speak of the scientific side of the question an imitation of the bleat of a sheep and groans were heard, and after ten minutes the explosion of another squib.

The smell of powder became unpleasantly pungent, but Mr. Nolan continued—almost unheard in the din—and eventually the Chairman threatened that he would have the hall cleared it the disturbance continued.

Mr. Nolan continued to speak, while whistles, cheers and songs increased in volume. He was continually interrupted, and men at the back of the hall gradually advanced to the front, and continued to interject observations of an ironical character.

A man rose to "a point of order," and said that Mr. Nolan was departing from the subject of vivisection and was now dealing with experiments on human beings.

The Chairman announced that he would ask Mr. Nolan to confine himself to the vivisection of animals.

Mr. Nolan retorted that he was not going to be directed, even by the Chairman, what he was to speak about.

Groups had now formed in the hall, talking together. More squibs were exploded; the atmosphere became suffocating, and men fanned themselves with their hats as they stood on chairs watching a crowd which civic guards, who had come in, were trying to persuade to keep quiet.

Mr. Nolan began to speak at 8.5 p.m., and at 10.10 p.m., when disorder had grown to greater dimensions, and men apparently resented being removed, the civic guards cleared the greater part of the gathering out of the hall and the meeting was declared at an end.

THE IRISH PORTS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Tuesday

In the Northern Parliament to-day, Mr. W. J. Nixon (Independent Unionist) referred to a broadcast talk given on the B.B.C. by Commander Stephen King-Hall, M.P., in which he suggested that the people of Northern and Southern Ireland should come to some arrangement so that the British Navy could use the Irish ports. He objected to anyone from any Parliament lecturing another Parliament as to what they should or should not do. There was far too much lecturing going on at present, and some of the B.B.C. lectures were doing more harm than good. Mr. de Valera did not want to be told his business, and they did not want to be told theirs either. He advised all English M.P.s and other well-intentioned people to keep away from the thorny Irish question, which was supposed to have been settled several times, but never would be settled.

BRITISH SUBMARINE OVERDUE

The following British Admiralty communique was issued last night:—

"The Board of Admiralty regrets to announce that H.M. submarine Rainbow (Lieutenant-Commander L. P. Moore, R.N.) is overdue, and must be considered lost. The next-of-kin have been informed."

MR. CUDAHY ON HOW BELGIUM CAPITULATED

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

IN a wireless talk, entitled "Was Leopold a Traitor?" Mr. John Cudahy, formerly United States Ambassador in Brussels and at one time U.S. Minister in Eire, said to-day that in the eyes of most Americans he was. "But the King's lips are sealed. He can say nothing. He was taken prisoner and stands convicted by accusation."

Mr. Cudahy said that he spoke "not as an advocate, but just as impartially and objectively as I can in the interests of truth and fairness, letting facts speak for themselves."

The Anglo-French Command, he declared, knew that Belgium was capitulating five days before, and King George received a letter from King Leopold to that effect on May 26.

Mr. Cudahy then gave the reasons which he thought led the King of the Belgians to capitulate. "King Leopold knew that he would be guilty of homicide if he asked his exhausted soldiers for further hopeless resistance," Mr. Cudahy said.

Among the reasons for the surrender, he declared, were "the fatal order of Gamelin" to abandon the little Maginot Line, the "crushing defeat" of the French seventh army in Holland, the capitulation of the Netherlands forces, the collapse of the French ninth army on the Belgo-German frontier "from Sedan to Dinant," the defeat of the French first army, and the failure of the Allied counter-attack.—(P.A. War Special.)

"BLACKEST PART OF BRITAIN"

M.P. ON NORTHERN UNEMPLOYMENT

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Tuesday.

THE Government has been shockingly negligent in the treatment of unemployment, said Mr. Edmond Warnock, K.C., in the Northern Parliament this evening, when speaking on the second reading of the Appropriation Bill. It was unfortunate, he said, that there should be so little investigation into the necessity for a vote of £561,700. The empty Government benches when half a million pounds was being voted was a good guide. The Minister for Finance had given no explanation as to why the money should be spent. He had only said, "I beg to move." The Government came into the House and threw a bill to the House "like a dog's dinner," and their supporters then cleared off to the lobbies. The Government had done absolutely nothing to create employment. After Munich they had an opportunity for sharing in the rearmament millions, but nothing was done.

A CINDERELLA

"This land has been a Cinderella, neglected and forgotten. I am amazed that Kirkcaldy in Scotland, is getting ten times the linen orders the six counties, the home of linen, is getting. This was because the member for Kirkcaldy had got for his area the orders, and the six-county members at Westminster had done nothing. We stand as the blackest part of Britain in unemployment." Unless the Parliamentary Unemployment Committee brought in a report like a charge of dynamite nothing would be done. He said the Government had succeeded by adroit action in staving off for three months any discussion.

When a motion was submitted adjourning the House,

Mr. J. Beattie (Lab.) said it would be a tragedy for the House to adjourn before the important matter of unemployment had been considered.

Mr. Edmond Warnock, K.C. (U.), said that the Prime Minister, by adroitly appointing a select committee on unemployment, had effectively silenced every member of the House who was interested in unemployment. The Minister of Agriculture had taken a leaf out of his leader's notebook and silenced agricultural members by appointing another committee.

Lord Glentoran, Chief Whip, said that there never was any question of stifling discussion, but he had never heard of an interim report being discussed by the House before being considered by the Government.

PREMIER'S REPLY

The Prime Minister said the member for St. Anne's (Mr. Warnock) could hardly rise in his seat without "having a knock" at him on this question of unemployment. "I resent very much his use of the words 'very adroitly set up this committee.'" He said when he set up the committee he did so as a result of pressure from the members and after a considerable amount of hesitation. If the chairman of the committee informed him that the committee would like the House to meet he would ask the Speaker to have the House reassembled.

The House adjourned.

FRANCE HONOURS WAR DEAD

ARCHBISHOP'S ADDRESS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VICHY, Tuesday.

Marshal Pétain to-day attended a Mass in the Cathedral of Saint Jean, Lyons, in memory of the war dead. A number of archbishops and bishops were present, including Monsignor Beintz, Bishop of Metz. General Huntziger, Minister of War, and M. Baudoin, Secretary of State, were with Marshal Pétain.

Cardinal Gerlier, Archbishop of Lyons, who fought in the Great War, gave an address calling upon Frenchmen to unite behind the Marshal. "All France is behind you to raise the wounded country," he said to the Marshal. "But France means not only the living, but also the glorious dead of victory and the tragic dead of defeat. By your courage in your work; by your energy in suffering, you will prepare the way for a morrow of healing. You are dreaming of a recovery that will threaten no one and which will not lead to the shedding of blood or tears, but which will aim at bringing together all the children of God in justice, honour and brotherhood for the good of storm-tossed humanity."

In the Matrimonial Division of the Belfast High Court yesterday Lord Justice Andrews granted a decree to Doris M'Dowell, Rutland street, Belfast, dissolving her marriage with John M'Dowell, The Cottage, Lisbane, Ballygowan, on the grounds of misconduct. The suit was undefended.

POVERTY IN ATHLONE

RELIEF TO BEGIN ON FRIDAY

IRISH TIMES FUND NOW OVER £2,000

FROM OUR REPORTER.

ATHLONE, Tuesday.

DAY by day poverty is growing more acute in Athlone. Cupboards which a week ago were reasonably well filled are bare, or fast becoming so; household money in many homes has dwindled down from thirty or forty shillings to half-a-crown or even less; housewives who last week bought bacon and meat and vegetables are now buying only bread and tea and margarine.

Shop-keepers, except those who are prohibited by their head offices from doing so, are allowing bills for necessities to mount higher and higher with little prospect of payment until relief moneys are disbursed.

One prominent grocer who has been trading in the town for many years said:—"We will give all the credit we can for necessities, but we make it quite plain to our customers that we will not hand over luxuries without payment. We know most of our customers very well; they have been dealing with us for years, and our practice has always been to allow them credit of £1 10s. to £2 or more, according to the size of the family, and at the end of the week they come along and pay for what they have had during the week. Last Friday they paid up as usual because they were given an extra week's pay, but what will happen this week I do not know; for their Exchange money will barely pay their rent, fuel and light. It is just like the strike a few weeks ago. We gave them plenty of credit then, and they were just clearing off their debts when the fire came."

Many people interviewed yesterday, including the local administrator, the Rev. J. Plunkett, chairman of the Relief Committee, expressed the opinion that many more thousands of pounds would be necessary to extend relief over the ensuing months.

It may be months, perhaps, even a year, before the woollen mills are rebuilt, machinery installed and working at full pressure again, and during that period the town is faced with the greatest depression in its history.

WORST CASES

I visited the homes of workers where some of the worst cases of poverty exist, and here is what they said:—William Downey, 98 Sarsfield square: "I have a wife and an eighteen months old baby, and was employed as a labourer at the mill. We have no food in the house except one loaf of bread, which my wife has just baked with her last quarter-stone of flour; a few ounces of tea and a little milk. We used to get 18s. a week credit with the grocer, but we have had to extend that. Our milk is supplied on credit, but we are only getting a pint a day now for ourselves and the baby."

Thomas Harris, a weaver, of 112 Sarsfield square, has a wife, four small children, and supports an aged invalid. Indicating her bare shelves, Mrs. Harris said: "What you can see is all I have, one loaf of white bread, a small tin of sugar, some tea and a little milk. The milkman is giving us a quart of milk a day for the seven of us. We have no coal, but my husband has collected some old wood, which we are burning. We hope to be able to hold out until Friday by getting more credit in the shops." Asked if she had any money, she replied: "Not a single shilling." Mr. Harris earned £2 6s. a week at the mill.

Several other families interviewed told the same story, they had no money and very little food, and were hoping to obtain more and more credit from the traders.

A few families, including those of two loom tuners, who occupied higher paid key positions in the mill, were in better straights, and hoped to be able to last for a fortnight or more without relief.

RELIEF COMMITTEE MEETING

The disbursement of money to meet needy persons will begin next Friday, it was announced last night at a meeting of the Athlone Relief Fund, under the chairmanship of the Rev. J. Plunkett, Adm.

A questionnaire requesting full particulars of the immediate circumstances has been compiled, and will be circulated to the workers of the mill to-morrow.

The Chairman suggested at last night's meeting that it would be a good idea to try to arrange to have a "talk" given from Radio Eireann concerning the distress in Athlone, with a view to publicising the Relief Fund.

It was decided also that the Rev. Chairman, Dr. Chapman and Mr. Martin should go to Dublin to-morrow to approach the Irish Press, the Irish Independent, and Radio Eireann, with a view to obtaining publicity; and also to the Irish Times to inquire about the transference of the Irish Times Fund to the local Committee for disbursement.

RED CROSS AID

Dr. Coen announced that the Red Cross had decided to make some of the houses which it was necessary to demolish semi-habitable for the winter. Dr. Kerly, Dr. Chapman, Dr. Coen, the three representatives of the Red Cross on the Relief Committee, agreed to inquire from the Red Cross whether it would be prepared to assist the Relief Committee in relieving immediate distress this week.

The Ven. Archdeacon Crowe, P.P., V.F., and Mr. P. V. Murtagh were elected vice-chairmen, and Messrs. E. Hewett and W. Tormey were elected secretaries. The Rev. M. R. Cooper was elected hon. treasurer.

Lists of men disemployed by the fire, and tabulations of the earnings of all the families affected by the fire, were submitted for investigation.

The Relief Committee decided, on the suggestion of Mr. D. Hannon, to get in touch with John Count McCormack, whose father worked in the Athlone Woollen Mills, with a view to holding concerts in Dublin and Athlone for the relief of the workers. Count McCormack is at present touring England.

£1,000 CHEQUE

The editor of the Irish Times yesterday addressed the following letter to the Venerable Archdeacon Crowe, St. Peter's, Athlone:—

"Venerable and Dear Sir,—

"I have pleasure in enclosing a cheque for £1,000 for the relief of immediate distress in Athlone.

"This sum is part of the fund which is being subscribed by readers of the Irish Times, and I am sending it directly to you pending the appointment of a general committee to administer the combined funds which are being raised.

"I should be grateful in the circumstances if the Irish Times could be allowed to nominate one representative on that committee."

GREEKS CUT VITAL SUPPLY LINE

Capture Town near Koritza

MINISTER'S APPEAL FOR MORE 'PLANES

THE Greeks yesterday reported that they had captured the Albanian town of Erseka, severing the vital supply line between the right and left wings of the Italian Army, says the Associated Press. The town has been under artillery fire for several days.

The occupation of Erseka, about eighteen miles south of Koritza, did not cause a pause in the Greek fighting pointed at Koritza, which is expected to fall at any moment.

The Greek Press Minister (M. Nicoloudis) made a three-word appeal yesterday for aid from Britain, the United States and neutral countries — "'Planes, 'planes, 'planes." The Italians, he said, were using 400 warplanes on the Koritza sector alone.

In a review of the war, he said:—"Our heroic Army is mopping up the last remnants of the invaders on Greek territory. . . . and is pushing the enemy back into Albania. Victory will be ours."

AT KORITZA

Mounting losses in dead and wounded are reported in the fierce battle between Greek and Italian forces for the possession of Koritza, with neither side able to deliver an knock-out bled, said Yugoslav sources last night, quoted by Associated Press. The Italians were reported to be holding their positions on the Koritza front against a heavy onslaught.

Other reports reaching Monastir said that the Italians penetrated the Greek lines yesterday near Sirica on Mount Morava for more than a mile, and 600 Greek prisoners were taken, including 100 Albanian partisans of King Zog.

Although they admitted the need of more aircraft to meet the Italian air power on the war fronts, the Greeks were reported yesterday to be still on the offensive in the Koritza sector, where the Italians were being slowly forced out of the strategic town, despite their fierce resistance. In this area the Italians were fighting desperately to keep open their lines of retreat, which are dominated by Greek guns, mounted on the heights around Koritza.

The latest Greek communiqué reported fierce fighting in the Epirus sector and east of Koritza, and announced the capture of Italian positions, in spite of "stubborn defence."

Some diplomatic sources in Berne yesterday, according to the Associated Press, said that a German-Bulgarian drive towards the Aegean Sea and Salonika "may be effected at any hour."

The Greek spokesman said that his High Command had taken all necessary steps to meet such an attack on Greece's Macedonian flank.

A military expert in London yesterday said that the Greek Army's "mule-back" artillery, light and extremely mobile, has proved extremely valuable, and is undoubtedly being used in the assault upon Koritsa.

WHY GREECE ASKS FOR HELP

The Greek Press Minister, in his appeal, said that, despite their epic victories and unshakeable faith in their cause, which was blessed by God, they appealed with all the force at their command that Allied and neutral aid be given to Greece without delay and without hesitation.

"We are convinced of victory," he said, "but our difficulties and needs must not be forgotten. We are fighting an enemy six times greater numerically, with abundant material at his command, and, above all, great Air Forces.

"Greece has little material and hardly any 'planes. She possesses only the heroism of her soldiers and airmen, who are winning the admiration of the world.

"The help of our ally, Great Britain, is very precious to us. The defeat of the Italians at Taranto was a heroic feat of arms which does honour to the British Fleet, and has rendered a great service; but we need other things also.

"Above all we urgently need 'planes. Tell that with all your ardour. Tell public opinion in Britain and America. They must not be satisfied only with epic messages announcing epic victories of the Greek Army.

"There are also the dangers and sacrifices to which the Greeks are exposed. During the last few days, in view of Koritza, the Greek Army was attacked by 400 Italian 'planes. It advanced in spite of them. But, although this is the first example of any army in 1940 advancing before an enemy without the support of aircraft, while the enemy smites us with his powerful aviation both at the front and over our undefended towns, that does not mean it can last indefinitely.

"We will not make the mistake of heroic Finland, which, contenting itself with first successes, failed to ask for foreign help. I therefore appeal to the British and American Press so that air support shall be sent us, and as soon as possible."

Mr. Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State, announced yesterday at his Press Conference in Washington that Greece had been assured that the appeal would receive the most sympathetic response. The matter had been referred to other Government departments for consideration.

The Greek Minister, it was disclosed, discussed the question with Mr. Sumner Welles on Monday.

The British and American Ambulance Corps announced in New York that 25 ambulances would be sent to Greece as soon as transportation could be arranged.

One hundred and twenty Germans from Greece have arrived in Belgrade, according to the German wireless yesterday, quoted by Press Association.

WHY GREECE HATES

The deduction drawn by the Greek Press from Mussolini's speech is that the situation in Italy is precarious, says a Press Association War Special from Athens. A point which is very generally seized upon for comment is Mussolini's assertion that "the Greeks hate Italy as they hate no other people," and his ironical remarks that, perhaps, the reason for this hatred was that such Italians as Santorre di Rossi, Count of Santa Rosa and Antonio Preschi died for Greece.

GREEKS REPULSE COUNTER-ATTACK

PREPARE FOR NEW OFFENSIVE

The Greeks are reported to have repulsed a counter-attack by two Italian regiments against the town of Biklichta, nine miles north-east of Koritza, on the Florina-Koritza road, says a Press Association War Special.

The Greeks are receiving reinforcements, according to military circles in Athens, for an attack on Pogradet, a town on the shores of Lake Okhrida, some 37 miles due north of Koritza. Should Pogradet fell the Italian line of retreat into Albania from Koritza would be cut off.

MR. LENNOX ROBINSON'S adaptation of Guy de Maupassant's famous story, "Boule de Suif," makes an entertainment that holds, on the whole, the spirit and quality of the original without making the work any more remarkable in dramatic form. There are moments when it does not feel quite so good; moments, on the other hand, when it tries to deepen the story and almost succeeds in becoming something different and better.

Maupassant, master of the short story though he was, sometimes leaves one unconvinced as if because of something superficial in his view of life. He had a wonderful knack of creating people who are sharply alive before us, but there is a lack in them which seems, in the final view, to suggest that they are not fully acquainted with the depth and mystery of life. He was a good writer, but he did not see very far into the human soul.

It was his luck as a writer to have devoted himself almost wholly to the short story. Around a simple anecdote he could always give his characters a vigorous glow—for a while, for the length of a short story, but they were never the people who could stick the course of a novel or a play, particularly not a play; for they have not passion in them in the noble sense. He could make the commonplace intensely moving and dramatic—on the surface.

This has been Mr. Robinson's main difficulty—to give the people of this story, seen so effectively on the surface, life enough for a whole evening's play. "Boule de Suif" is, perhaps, one of the stories in which Maupassant succeeded in becoming a little more profound than usual. Mr. Robinson helps him on this side with gentle touches that are always a little more than they seem. One feels the tragi-comedy of "Roly Poly," as he calls Elizabeth Rousset; more tragedy, perhaps, than comedy in the story, but still ironic—the stuff of Comedy. Yet, it is all just a little difficult for the stage, that final moment when these so self-righteous people drown her in scorn, after they have sacrified her and then rejected her as someone quite improper. We glimpse almost the whole of the woman that she is, but the others we do not altogether come to know, although they are rich and good as characters for the time being.

Perhaps Mr. Robinson added to his difficulties by taking the story out of its period, that of the Franco-Prussian war, and showing it as happening in the France of to-day. It was hard to see what he gained by this, although it may have helped him in his conception of the central character as not quite the woman that Maupassant saw. It assisted some brighter touches into life, but it did not increase the irony of the theme. The touches of Mr. Edwards as producer were always successful in bringing the whole story nearer to the stage.

The part of "Roly Poly" was good material for the art of Miss Shelah Richards, although the change of period may have caused it to look a little divided against itself at moments. The people who surrounded her seemed to slip back a little in their characters for the support of the period. This group, so splendidly held together by Mr. Christopher Casson, Miss Coralie Carmichael, Mr. Robert Hennessy, Miss Meriel Moore, Mr. Liam Gaffney, Miss Micheline Patton, and Miss Dorothy Day, made the larger success of the play. The German Lieutenant was played with skill and feeling by Mr. St. John Barry, as the part was conceived by Mr. Robinson, although he was scarcely the Prussian Officer that Maupassant saw in 1870.

The production had a fine reception from a crowded house, and Mr. Robinson seemed pleased with the success of this best bit of work he has done for some time.

LIGHT OPERA AT THE GAIETY

"THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE" AND "TRIAL BY JURY"

For the second night of their week at the Gaiety Theatre the Rathmines and Rathgar Musical Society presented "The Pirates of Penzance" and "Trial by Jury," two of the most popular of the works of Gilbert and Sullivan. Team-work, especially on the part of the chorus, was a strong feature of both performances. It speaks well for the Society that they were able to present a ladies' chorus completely different from that of the opening night, yet quite as effective in their singing, and as efficient in their acting, as could be desired. The male chorus was excellent, both as jurymen and later in the exacting rôles of pirates and policemen.

There was also virtually a complete change of principals, and, while in the main they were old hands at this work, it was pleasing to find a number of newcomers. By this wise blending of the old and new the Society's line of principals is well maintained.

"Trial by Jury" was a grand curtain-raiser, providing plenty of fun-making. R. J. Tierney, as the learned judge, carried the part with great aplomb and good sense of humour. He had before him a dainty and refreshing plaintiff in Betty McConnell, a newcomer, who sang and acted with distinct promise. Michael Shaw was the defendant, and he got through the rôle well, though his voice is rather on the light side. There were also Michael Quinn (counsel), Cyril Hatfield (usher), Fred Holland (foreman of jury), R. O. Milne (associate) and Maureen Harold (first bridesmaid). The jury and the occupants of the public gallery stole quite a lot of the thunder.

In "The Pirates" Joseph Flood was in his happiest vein as the Slave of Duty. He was in grand singing voice, and he acted with splendid conviction. Opposite him was Eileen Clancy, as Mabel. Her singing of that delightful aria "Poor Wandering One" was exquisite, and had she done nothing else it would have made her performance noteworthy; but she was excellent in all she did. Her rival for Frederic's hand was played by Gwen Britton, who sang the contralto music well, but spoiled the effect of her work by making up too young, when Gilbert so definitely stresses her age as forty-seven. A few lines and touches in the make-up would rectify the defect. C. F. Bruton got a great deal of comedy into the rôle of the Major-General. His patter song, cleverly given, displayed a very nimble wit and tongue. Hubert Brown also impressed one as the Pirate King. He cut a fine figure, and imparted the right atmosphere to both his acting and his singing. He had an able assistant in Michael Quinn as Samuel. P. J. Henry was the Sergeant of Police, and, if in his own style he out-burlesqued Gilbert, it was none the less very amusing.

A very dainty trio were the General's Daughters, Edith (Kay Maher, who also showed a neat turn for comedy), Kate (Eva Staveley), and Isabel (Ruby Hunt).

Sam Mooney saw that the productions were in the Savoyard style, and Mr. T. H. Weaving, musical director, kept the works moving in pleasing time.

LEGISLATION FOR TRADES UNIONS

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

While it is highly improbable that the legislation outlined by the Labour Whip, Mr. Keyes, in his speech, reported yesterday, is imminent, it is certain that the Government contemplates legislation affecting trades unions generally. Several Ministers have given hints of this and negotiations have been going on between trade union leaders and Ministers.

One thing which is likely to be the subject of such legislation is the position of unions operating here with headquarters outside the country. The registration of bodies of workers, as well as the registration of employers' associations, is also likely to be regulated.

Another matter, as mentioned in the Irish Times last March, is the possibility of legislation to curb the unrestrained use of the strike weapon.

MORE TUBERCULOSIS CASES

LACK OF HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION

At a meeting of the County Dublin Board of Health, at Parnell square yesterday, a report from the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. J. A. Harbison, stated that there had been a gradual increase in the number of cases of tuberculosis, and a serious aspect of the matter was that he could not find accommodation for them.

Mrs. Mulvey stated that in some instances affected people were living with five or six children in one room.

Mr. T. Cosgrave said that the worst aspect of the position was the wretched housing conditions under which many people in the County had to live. There was no room anywhere now for tuberculosis cases. It was about time that the people in the city and county got up against the Local Government Department for holding up the scheme for the new sanatoria for the county and city. They still were awaiting sanction for a 1937 housing scheme.

Mr. J. J. Clare said that they had the same experience as the Corporation regarding hospitalisation. He would not put the blame on the Minister, but thought that it was due entirely to the officials.

A vote of congratulation to the Very Rev. Dr. McQuaid on his appointment as Archbishop of Dublin was adopted.

Mr. J. J. Ennis presided.

The death has occurred at his residence, 3 Woodland avenue, Stillorgan, of Dr. Edmund Smith, who was well known in Dublin as a supplier of surgical appliances. Dr. Smith was aged seventy-two. Dr. Smith had been in poor health for the past few years. He studied medicine in the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, but never actually practised. Almost fifty years ago he took over the business of Smith and Sheppard, St. Stephen's Green, to which firm he devoted his life, having no other hobby other than his surgical and orthopædic work. Dr. Smith is survived by his wife and his son, Dr. Edmund Smith, of Lagos, Nigeria, who is Professor of Tropical Diseases.

MR. ROBERT GIBSON WARREN

Mr. Robert Gibson Warren, of "Glendair," King Edward's street, Bray, who died yesterday, aged seventy-four, had a long and successful career in the legal profession. A member of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland, he was president for the year 1918-1919. He had his practise at 9 Eustace street, and was partner in the firm of Campbell and Warren. Mr. Warren is survived by three daughters; his wife died some years ago.

Mr. Warren had been a member of the Irish Rugby Union for 50 years and a member of the International Board of Rugby football since 1892. Mr. Warren was hon. secretary of the International Board from 1898 till he resigned in 1934, then being succeeded by another Irishman in Mr. H. Thrift. Mr. Warren continued to represent Ireland on the Board till the time of his death.

He had played for Ireland fifteen times in the years 1884-1890. In 1886 he captained the first Irish XV. to beat England in Dublin. In 1895-1896 he was President of the Irish Rugby Union. REV. BROTHER O'MAHONY.

spent all his professional life in the Christian Brothers' Novitiate, North Richmond street, which he entered at the age of fifteen. For twenty years he was the senior master of Latin, French, German and Italian at the O'Connell Schools. A typical Christian Brother, he was noted for his culture, learning and even temper. During his teaching career he taught Sir Thomas Molony, K.C., a former Lord Chief Justice of Ireland; Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., T.D.; Mr. J. J. Murphy, a former Town Clerk of Dublin; the Rev. Dillon Cosgrave, O.C.C.; the Rev. M. P. Cleary, O.P., Prior, Dominick street, and many priests throughout the Archdiocese of Dublin. Long before the revival of the Irish language became popular he had introduced the teaching of it in Richmond Street. Brother O'Mahony gave important evidence before the Intermediate Commission in 1889, and in 1928 the honorary degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the National University of Ireland. He celebrated his Golden Jubilee in 1913. Brother O'Mahony's death is a great loss to education in general, and particularly to the Community of North Richmond Street.

THE VERY REV. MICHAEL BRADLEY

The Very Rev. Michael Bradley, P.P., Lavey, County Derry, died yesterday at the age of 65. Father Bradley was a native of Killygordon, County Donegal. He was ordained in 1900. Until 1930 he was a member of the staff of St. Columb's College, Derry, first as teacher of science and classics and afterwards as Vice-President. He was appointed Parish Priest of Lavey in 1930. His brother is the Rev. F. Bradley, of Carndonagh, County Donegal.

THE REV. JOHN J. DUNLEA

The death has occurred in the Maynooth Mission fields, in Burma, of the Rev. John J. Dunlea, elder son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlea, Washington street, Cork. He was ordained less than two years ago and had just completed his first year with the Mission. Father Dunlea was educated at the Presentation College, Cork; at Farranferris Seminary, and at Dalgan Park, Galway. Father Dunlea was a general favourite, and his unexpected death will be much regretted. Only a few days before the news of it arrived his brother, Mr. Donal Dunlea, received a long letter from him, written early in October, stating that he was enjoying splendid health and was delighted with his work.

MR. LEONARD DOBBIN

The death of Mr. Leonard Dobbin, of Knockrea, Blackrock road, Cork, in his 90th year, occurred on Friday last. Mr. Dobbin was born in 1851. When he was a child his parents went to Australia, but some time later Mr. Dobbin's father returned to Ireland and settled in Cork, where he established a branch of the firm of William Dobbin and Son, North street, Belfast. Later the business was established with great success as an independent concern, and was formed into a limited liability company under the title, "Dobbin, Ogilvie and Co., Ltd." When the senior partner retired the business was managed by Mr. Leonard Dobbin and his younger brother, Sir Alfred Dobbin. For many years Mr. Leonard Dobbin was a liberal supporter of St. Fin Barre's Cathedral, and of other charities in Cork. In 1881 he married Miss S. C. Paul, daughter of Mr. John Paul, and niece of Alderman Henry Paul, of Cork. He leaves two sons, Mr. Leonard Dobbin, managing director of Transit, Ltd., Cork, and Mr. Henry Paul Dobbin, of Nakuru, Kenya, and also four daughters.

The death of the Rev. Anthony Drought, at the age of eighty-three, occurred last Saturday at Leacain, Rostrevor, County Down. He was educated at the University of Dublin, where he took his B.A. degree in 1879 and the M.A. in 1881. He was curate at Trim from 1881 to 1884, and later officiated at Kilmessan and Rathgraffe. He was appointed Rural Dean of Trim in 1899. In 1904 he became Rector of Castlepollard, County Westmeath, but had retired some time before his death.

ANTI-PARTITION MEETING

SUPPORT PLEDGED TO TAOISEACH

IMPRESSED BY SOUTHERN UNITY

THE association which sought the abolition of partition and spoke on behalf of the minority in the North of Ireland, stood through thick and thin behind Mr. de Valera in the fight he was making for the retention of the Irish ports, said Mr. Eamon Donnelly, speaking at an anti-partition meeting organised in the Mansion House, Dublin, last night by the Six Countymen's Association.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin presided.

Mr. Donnelly said that the North of Ireland was at war only because of partition. They were told that they should wait until the war was over. The people of India were not waiting for the end of the war. The case they were putting forward was that they were knocking at the door of an Irish Parliament and demanding admission to the Parliament of their own nation.

SOUTHERN UNITY

Mr. J. Stewart, M.P., Tyrone, said that the Government of Eire and Mr. de Valera were faced with tremendous difficulties. The Nationalists of the North did not want to make the position any more difficult, but they felt that, next to defence and neutrality, the most important and urgent question in the life of the country was the abolition of partition. It gave them pleasure and hope in the North to see the unity that had been, and was being, achieved in Eire, a unity which would yet secure for them the independence of the whole country.

Mr. Patrick Maxwell, M.P., Derry, said that as far as a war between England and Germany was concerned, the proper attitude was neutrality; but there could be no neutrality in the struggle of this country neutrality in the struggle of this country against England. The people in the South should try to knock some sense into the heads of the foolish people who suggested that they could convert the Unionists in the North.

Mr. S. Dowling said that if there was not a move forward in the present circumstances, the people would be right to make it clear to Mr. de Valera that they were not following the man, but the flag.

Mr. Rodger McHugh, who said that he was an Irish Republican, said that Partition could be settled only as a part of the larger problem, the establishment of an Irish Republic. They needed a real unity.

Mr. E. Quinn, Secretary of the Association, said that they were going to employ every possible means to secure unification of the country. They were concentrating their energies at present on the task of bringing the different political parties in Northern Ireland together, and during the last three months they had made good progress in that direction. They were one hundred per cent. behind the statement of Mr. de Valera recently. The ports were ours, and so were the six counties.

Mr. S. MacBride and Mr. P. O'Donnell also spoke.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

As will be seen from our advertising columns, the Great Northern Railway Company have arranged a round of festivities for the Christmas holidays at their Hotel at Bundoran. Apart from the championship links, which are bound to attract many golfers, the management has arranged all kinds of games and competitions, and is putting up prizes for the winners. There will be an excellent orchestra, with dancing every night and a fancy dress carnival dance on Boxing Night. A very attractive tariff has been arranged, and combined rail and hotel coupons are available from the company's principal stations.

NAPOLEON'S RISE TO POWER

DR. MOODY'S ARDILAUN LECTURE

"THE Rule of Napoleon in France and Europe" is the subject which Dr. T. W. Moody, F.,T.C.D., Professor of Modern History in Dublin University, has taken for his Lady Ardilaun Lectures at Alexandra College, Dublin. In the first lecture of the series, delivered yesterday, he dealt with the rise of Napoleon and with the period 1795 to 1799.

The Archbishop of Dublin (Most Rev. Dr. Barton), introducing the lecturer, said that they were very fortunate to have Dr. Moody in their midst. It was one of the rules of th. Lady Ardilaun Lectures that the lecturer must hold a degree of an English University, and the present difficulties about travel permits would have made it hard to secure anyone from England. He welcomed Dr. Moody to the college.

Dr. Moody, in the course of his lecture, said that little more than a year after the outbreak of the French Revolution Edmund Burke had prophesied that the movement would end in a military dictatorship. "Some popular general," he wrote, "who understands the art of conciliating the soldiery, and who possesses the true spirit of command, shall draw the eyes of all men upon himself. . . . The moment in which that event shall happen, the person who commands the army is your master." Such a man was Napoleon Bonaparte, and his assumption of supreme power in 1799 meant the end of the revolutionary experiment in democracy. Yet Bonaparte conceived himself as the heir of the Revolution and claimed that his mission was to fulfil, not to destroy, its purpose.

SUCCESS AT TOULON

If the goal of the revolution was democracy, said the lecturer, the rule of Napoleon was most certainly not its fulfilment. The three motives of the revolution were equality, security and social order, and the preponderance of these motives explained why a majority of Frenchmen admitted, or at least acquiesced in, Napoleon's claim that he came to fulfil, not to destroy, the revolution. Napoleon first made his mark in French history when, as a young artillery officer, he came to the rescue of the Government, faced with the insurrection of October, 1795. The young officer had witnessed the storming of the Tuilleries and had the greatest disgust for "that most hideous rabble," only equalled by his scorn of the King for not mowing them down with cannon. That, however, made no difference to him in his support of the Republic. Bonaparte's successful handling of the artillery at Toulon, when as a result of his genius that town was recovered and the English Fleet driven out after three months, brought him again to the notice of the Government and won him promotion.

THE ATTACK ON AUSTRIA

Put in command of the artillery on the Italian front, he conceived the idea of attacking Austria through Italy. Again he saved the Government in face of the revolt at Vendemiar, and as a reward saw his plan for the invasion of Italy accepted. In a series of brilliant strokes he thrust the Austrians out of Italy, and his army crossed the Alps and penetrated to seventy-five miles from Austria, when the Austrian Government sued for peace. In all this Bonaparte acted as if he were a sovereign prince—to his nominal masters in Paris he sent polite excuses. The eyes of all France were now on him, but he decided that the time was not yet ripe to make himself master.

Yet again he intervened to crush a Royalist plot, and had the satisfaction at the same time of striking down a dangerous military rival. He wound up the Italian adventure by signing the peace of Campo Formio, which left Great Britain the sole survivor of the first coalition against revolutionary France. The Government, he wrote in October, 1797, "must destroy England, or it must expect itself to be destroyed by these active islanders. Let us concentrate our energies on the navy and annihilate England, and, that done, Europe is at our feet."

The whole of Bonaparte's subsequent career was, in one way or another, a commentary on these words—how to crush England was the problem on which he focussed his attention after the peace of Campo Formio.

THE CARE OF POOR CHILDREN

NURSERY CENTRE OPENED IN DUBLIN

The care of the children of the poor was a work of national importance and one which should be embodied in the Welfare scheme of the Corporation and not left to charity, said the Lord Mayor of Dublin yesterday, when she performed the opening ceremony at St. Brigid's Nursery Centre, Mountjoy square.

Now that the first move had been made by the Civics Institute of Ireland, she hoped that soon there would be sufficient nursery centres in every working-class district in the city.

The President of the Civics Institute (the Rev. J. Canavan, S.J.) paid tribute to the co-operation of the Dublin Corporation and expressed the hope that citizens would follow its lead and reproduce and imitate the nursery centre in other areas.

The City Manager (Mr. P. J. Hernon), Mrs. P. J. Ruttledge and Mrs. Manning Robertson also spoke

THE NEW CENTRE

The Nursery Centre, sponsored by the Civics Institute of Ireland, is the first of its kind to be opened in Eire, and Miss M. Keane, secretary of the Institute, speaking to members of the Irish Women Citizens' Association during the afternoon, outlined the aims of those in charge of the Centre and told of the work they were doing.

St. Brigid's Centre was the old tennis pavilion in Mountjoy square, which had been entirely reconstructed by the Corporation and was now centrally heated and attractively decorated. There was accommodation for thirty children of working-class parents, who were required to pay 2s. per week for their maintenance. Children between the ages of two and four years were cared for at the Centre, where they spent the day, were fed, taught habits of hygiene, good manners, and were given facilities for exercise.

Miss Ella McMenamin, the supervisor, was the first Irish girl to take the Nursery Schools' Diploma, and she was qualified to give advice when needed. The honorary medical adviser to the centre was Dr. Angela Russell. The children were given three nourishing meals a day.

CIVICS INSTITUTE

The opening of St. Brigid's centre had been made possible by the generosity of a member of the Civics Institute, who had donated funds for its maintenance, and the management of the centre was in charge of a ladies' committee, of which Mrs. Manning Robertson was chairman and Mrs. Harry Meade vice-chairman.

Newmarket Programme

Orthodox Selected as Best Bet on To-Day's Card

THERE are seven events on the card at Newmarket to-day. An early start will be made, the first race being timed for 11.45. The Alington Stakes for juveniles has been divided. In Division I. I give the vote to Orthodox, who is by the Derby and St. Leger winner, Hyperion, and showed himself to be on the up-grade when he took part in a good finish with Turkhana and Mr. Sawyer here last month. Crafty Caddy comes into the reckoning on his fourth to Myrobella colt, Dourak and Riette filly at Nottingham; and of the others there are possibilities about the well-galloped West Park colt.

The Ixworth Stakes is for juveniles, and will be run over seven furlongs. As he is not likely to fail through lack of stamina, I make choice of Fettes, who won over the distance last month. Fettes easily defeated Lambert Simnel and Leighon Tor colt on that occasion, and a high opinion is held of his ability.

The Milton Handicap gives King Legend a good winning opportunity. He was third to Hunter's Moon IV. and Sir Pomm in the Cesarewitch, and afterwards occupied a similar position behind Atout Maitre and Hunter's Moon IV. in the New Jockey Club Cup. Selections:—

Aporentice Handicap—Peace Offering.
Alington Stakes (Div. 1)—Orthodox (nap).
Ixworth Stakes—Fettes.
Milton Handicap—King Legend.
Bunbury Mile Nursery—Nimrod.
Witchford Stakes—Egmont.
Alington Stakes (Div. 2)—Mazarin.

DOUBLE:
Orthodox and Fettes.

NEWMARKET HINTS

NEWMARKET, Tuesday Night.

Several fancied candidates will represent Newmarket interests to-morrow in the Apprentice Handicap, which opens the proceedings.

In choosing from a likely quartette in Brasso, White Wings, Kozurka and Peace Offering, I rely on Peace Offering.

I take Anacreon and Confidence Trick to be our two best in the Alington Stakes. Division I. Confidence Trick has been doing well in fast spins of late, and may make a successful debut.

It is doubtful if Longships has made enough improvement to reverse the Dewhurst Stakes placings with Fetters on only 9lb. in the Ixworth Stakes, but he should, at least, be placed.

The Milton Handicap will attract Queen of Shiraz, Kolinski II., and Fanny Elssler. Kilinski II. ran a fairly good race behind Finis at the last Newmarket meeting, and the shorter distance now may be in his favour. I suggest that he holds a fair winning chance.

Nimrod, Merry Wanderer and Precocious Princess are fancied runners for the Bunbury Mile Nursery. I have no doubts regarding the stamina of Precocious Princess, and give her a confident vote.

Valeraine is presented with a winning chance in the Witchford Stakes. The best from Newmarket for the Alington Stakes, Division II., may prove to be Isabelline.

OFFICIAL SCRATCHINGS

Hares Scarce at Dunshaughlin

(BY MASTER McGRATH.)

I never attended a coursing meeting in public at which there were no bookmakers—until yesterday. There was not a solitary "penciller" at Grange, where the Dunshaughlin Club opened their season; but none of them need have any regret, as in all likelihood there would not have been a single bet. A few dozen enthusiasts followed the flag from beat to beat for seven hours, and we had an average of three courses an hour—in all, twenty-two; to be accurate. Fortunately it was an ideal day, and one felt the better of the fresh air.

The deciders for the two qualifying puppy stakes had to be held over; they will be run off at the Leinster Club's meeting next Monday. The Grange Stakes, for 8 all-ages, was divided between Grisilla and March Faster; and four shared the money in the Gaulstown Stakes, also for eight.

Such an experience is not uncommon at our open country meetings nowadays and the question again arises—What is the cause? The country is supposed to be "alive" with hares; but the extensive Dunshaughlin preserves did not hold the twenty-eight necessary to run out four eight-dog stakes. Is it that sufficient attention is not being given to preservation of the land by some clubs, or is the scarcity the result of the depredations caused by poachers?

The little coursing we had was, however, of the best quality. There was not an unsatisfactory trial, and invariably the strong hares gave the dogs a right good dressing. The puppies stood up to it splendidly. Mr. J. Canty's Fourth Link and Mr. Flynn's Fat in the Fire, who went to the last round, are smart on their game; but Fourth Link seemed to be moving the faster, and possibly would have raised the flag had they gone to slips. Mr. J. D. Bruton's Polleban and Miss A. B. Malone's Arctic Mint were the best of the bitch puppies. Each went a good bat, and it should be a close thing when they go to slips for the deciding course at Maynooth on Monday.

QUALIFYING STAKES—For 8 dog puppies.

Mr. J. Carty's Fourth Link (2l.) beat Nice Cut; Mr. P. Farrell's Still Unfit (2l.) beat Sir Sam; Mr. R. Craigie's Sandilla Laddy (1l.) beat Wee Bouncer; Mr. J. Flynn's Fat in the Fire beat Arran Link (2l.).

Second Round—Fourth Link (3l.) beat Still Unfit; Fat in the Fire (1l.) beat Sandilla Laddy.

F. Fourth Link (Robin's Link—Maxis) and bd. Fat in the Fire (6½ Bells—Prudent Daisy) will compete in the decider at the Leinster meeting next Monday.

QUALIFYING STAKE—For 8 bitch puppies.

Mr. N. Delany's Woodtown Hope (2l.) beat Baytown Rose; Mr. J. D. Bruton's Polleban (4l.) beat Queen's Robin; Mr. P. Barry's Baytown Pass (1l.) beat Lucky Express; Miss Malone's Arctic Mint (3l.) beat Steady Up.

Second Round—Polleban (just up) beat Woodtown Hope; Arctic Mint (1l.) beat Baytown Pass.

Bd. Polleban (Dasher Lad—Sheevra's Guide) and w. bd. Arctic Mint (Luminous Larry—Little Prospect) will contest the decider at the Leinster meeting next Monday.

GRANGE STAKE—For 8 all ages.

Mr. M. O'Connor's Grisilla (3l.) beat Odd Fee; Messrs. Fitzsimmon and Bray's Lough Varrick (4l.) beat Prodigal Son; Mr. P. Clarke's March Faster beat Fawn Pet (just up); Mr. C. Farrell's Walter Rifle (3l.) beat Goosepark Girl.

Second Round—Grisilla (2l.) beat Lough Varrick; March Faster (3l.) beat Walter Rifle.

W. bd. d. Grisilla (Luminous Larry—Gym's Fun) and f. b. March Faster (Sandaway—Lone Ambition) divided.

GAULSTOWN STAKE—For 8 two-corse all ages.

Mr. M. O'Connor's Easington beat Weather Guide; Mr. R. Craigie's Harristown Sandy beat Lillo Moore; Mr. J. Hilliard's Judy Crooner beat Riggin's Pet; Mr. N. O'Brien's Bashful Brunette beat Readdale Flash.

W. bd. d. Easington (Luminous Larry—Gym's Fun), f. d. Harristown Sandy (White Sandills—Cu Greinne), bd. b. Judy Crooner (Buzzing Dick—Eochodious—Moing Onion), and w. b. b. Bashful Brunette (Dasher Lad—Moygrehan Lass) divided.

Rugby Football

Big Club Game Clashes with Inter-Provincials

IF last Saturday's club games are any criterion, Leinster should certainly be the leading province this season. The two Munster teams which visited Dublin were beaten by a grand total of 57 points to 3; the Connaught side, Galwegians, lost to Clontarf by 39 points to 11; Queen's University, the strongest team in the North, failed at Belfield, though University College's margin was the narrow one of 6-3, and finally Old Belvedere, the only Dublin XV. to travel, trounced Garryowen at the Markets field by 39 points to 6.

These results are not entirely true representations of the merits of the respective teams, since both Cork Constitution and University College, Cork, travelled below full strength, and the same remark applies to Galwegians; but club Rugby does seem to be on a higher level in Leinster than elsewhere. In particular, Blackrock College seem to be almost unbeatable, especially as their reserve strength is such that the absence of one or two of the regular three-quarters seems to make little or no difference.

It is regrettable, however, that the meeting between Blackrock and their closest rivals on results so far, University College, should be fixed for Saturday week, the same date as the matches between Leinster and Connaught and Munster and Ulster. There was only one Blackrock man, T. Chamberlain, on the Leinster team in Belfast a fortnight ago, and he may be the only choice again from that club; but University College will be very depleted, since K. O'Flanagan and D. Ryan will probably be doing duty for Leinster at Kilkenny, and two of the best forwards, the brothers B. and D. Devane, would be disqualified to play for Munster.

Unfortunately, both for College and Munster, I hear that Barry Devane is suffering from overstrain, and is unlikely to play again this season. This is really bad luck, as he has been playing splendid Rugby at the back row of the scrum, and he has also proved an inspiring captain. Under these circumstances, College seem highly unlikely to check their rivals' remarkable winning sequence on Saturday week.

Apart from the Universities' meeting at Belfield and the Bective-Trinity encounter, last Saturday's leading games were one-sided. The Universities match was an excellent one, the forward battle being very exciting. It is a tribute to the power of the University College pack that, after being taken by surprise and hustled around in the first half, they should have recovered so well as to subdue the Queen's eight after the interval. With both teams at full strength, the Blackrock-University College match would be worth going a long way to see.

While University College are doing so well, Trinity continue to disappoint. In seven matches they have been successful only twice, losing four times and drawing once. It is extraordinary that with such talent behind the scrum and two interprovincial wing forwards, the team should be unable to settle down properly. No fewer than five of the backs—Anderson, McIntyre, Doyle, Carry and de Lacy—have been honoured by the Leinster and Munster selectors, yet the lack of heavy forwards who can hold their own in the tight scrums has meant one of the poorest records, so far, of any Dublin club.

Although they won, Saturday's match was tragic for Bective. First of all, G. Bailey, whose return seemed likely to settle the acute centre-three-quarter problem, had his knee damaged so severely that he may not play again; then J. Waters had to leave the field with concussion. The final blow came in the dressing-room after the match. M. Forde, who had played one of the finest games of his career at out-half, completely overshadowing Carry, discovered only then that he had broken a collar-bone, and, of course, will be out of action for several weeks. He and K. Doyle have been the mainstay of the back division this season, and Bectives are so short of three-quarters that they are reduced to playing their wing forward, Waters, in that position—provided he is fit by Saturday!

MATCHES TO COME

Next Saturday's list is as follows—Dublin University v. Garryowen; Wanderers v. Collegians; Old Belvedere v. University College; Blackrock College v. Lansdowne; Monkstown v. Knock; Bective Rangers v. Palmerston; University College, Cork, v. Clontarf.

The best football should be seen at Jones's road, where Old Belvedere oppose University College. Some weeks ago, before Old Belvedere had settled down, they were well beaten by the Dublin varsity, but they are a different proposition now, and may reverse that result, especially in the absence of R. Devane. Lansdowne are not a convincing team, for they lack thrust in attack, and have been unable to penetrate Blackrock. Since teams visiting Dublin find it difficult to travel at full strength, Wanderers seem likely to beat Collegians from Belfast; and Trinity should have little difficulty with Garryowen, who have lost all the five matches they have played up to date.

The improving Monkstown side should also defeat Northern visitors in Knock; and Bective, despite their misfortunes, may avenge an opening defeat from Palmerston. On their own pitch, University College, Cork, are a different proposition compared with the team they travel, and, in consequence, will probably give Clontarf a close battle.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY CUP SURPRISE

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Pembroke Wanderers II. created a real surprise in senior hockey circles by defeating Maids in the first round of the Cup at Templeogue on Saturday. This was an exciting and evenly contested game from start to finish, with each side scoring alternately and Wanderers getting the winning goal just on time. Actually Maids had the better of things through the field, but the Wanderers' inner forwards made more use of the opportunities that came their way in the circle.

The score stood at one goal all at the interval—Miss Blayney for Maids and Miss K. Byrne for Wanderers being the scorers. Miss Sweetman (2) and Mrs. Gamble scored goals for Maids in the second half, whilst Misses Conroy, Byrne, Doyle and Healy added goals for the winners.

Another surprise in the same competition was the runaway victory scored by Muckross 1st over their second string, who had done so well the previous week—holding Pembroke Wanderers' I. to a draw. It can only be said that there was not one weak spot in the first XI. combination, and the "seconds" never appeared to get a chance of settling down to their usual game. From the word go the "firsts" were off to a flying start and within five minutes Misses B. White and M. Dillon had scored goals—Miss Dillon netting twice again before the interval. Goals in the second half from Misses J. White (5), B. White, Dillon and Strahan brought the score to 12 without reply.

In their Cup match against Old Wesley at Templeogue Old College showed a marked improvement on their recent form. Play was evenly distributed in the first half, each side scoring once—Miss Watkins for College and Miss Booth for Wesley. In the second half, however, Old College were superior in every phase of the game, and further goals were added by Misses Watkins (2), Matheson (2) and Hassett, whilst Miss Allen netted Old Wesley's second.

Loreto Past scored a decisive victory, by four goals to nil, over Wicklow Past. Miss Cullen, in goal for Wicklow, was mainly responsible for holding the speedy Loreto forwards to a one-goal lead at the interval, and had she received proper support from her backs in the second period at least a couple of the scores could have been prevented, most of the Loreto goals being scored off rebounds. Miss Flynn opened the scoring just before the interval, and Misses O'Connell and Flynn added goals in the second half.

Monkstown started well against Pembroke Wanderers I. at Serpentine avenue, holding the home team to one-all at the interval, but were completely outplayed in the second period, when Wanderers scored eight further goals. Mrs. Whelan (2), Misses Coleman (3), Burke (2), O'Neill and Mrs. Ballagh got Wanderers' goals, while Miss Barry replied for Monkstown.

The only drawn game in the competition was that between Dublin University and Sheilmartin at Trinity Hall, each side scoring twice. Miss Mellon opened the score for Trinity after about twenty minutes' play, Miss Dowdall equalising before half-time. The second half was scoreless, but in the extra time played Misses Webster, for Trinity, and Mrs. Dunne, for Shielmartin, got goals.

All the goals came in the first half at Stradbrook, when Newcomes defeated Civil Service by five goals to one. Miss Gilmartin gave Civil Service an early lead, but Newcomes soon went ahead, Miss Quinn netting twice in quick succession. Miss Cruise scored the third, and Miss Quinn added two more just before half-time.

Contrary to recent form, U.C.D. defeated Optimists by the odd goal in three at Belfield. U.C.D. had the best of things in the opening period, and turned over leading by two goals, Misses Johnston and Doyle being the scorers. Optimists improved in the second half, and Miss Conan soon reduced the arrears, but the U.C.D. defence held out well, and full time came without any further addition.

Plenty of Talent in the Army

Boxing

FROM OUR BOXING CORRESPONDENT.

ALTHOUGH in some of the weights the competition was not very close, the recent Army Eastern Command Championships demonstrated the fact that there is plenty of talent among the soldiers at present. The leading men will certainly have far more to do this week, when the Army senior titles are at stake at the Stadium. In the majority of cases the Eastern Command winners will probably come out on top again, but, as eliminating tournaments have been held all over the country, the semi-finals and finals will produce plenty of excitement.

The two best fly-weights seem to be Pte. Knowles and Pte. Maloney, and, since there was so little between them the last time, Maloney has a reasonably good chance of reversing the decision, especially if he remembers to keep his accurate left hand working instead of trying to wade in with right swings. He simply ran on to Knowles's left leads in the previous contest.

For sheer, keen attack Pte. Christy excels any bantam-weight in the country, but a surprise punch is apt to knock him out of his stride, and he will have plenty of opposition from Ptes. Tallon, Coppinger, McKenna and Ryan. Tallon, indeed, would have a definite chance if he did not concentrate so completely on defence. He had Christy badly shaken with the one hard punch he delivered in the Eastern Command final.

GIFFORD SHOULD WIN

Unless Pte. Doyle, an Irish juvenile champion, can produce something exceptional, I cannot see Pte. Gifford stopped in the feather-weights. Always an attacker, Gifford hits harder now than ever previously. There is no light-weight of sufficient class to worry Cpl. P. Dowdall, and Cpl. V. Black's experience and ring-craft should bring him safely through the welter-weight.

Sergt. Evenden is up against a tough collection of middle-weights. He will need to start more quickly this time if he is to add the bigger title to his Eastern Command one. With his heavy punch and speed beyond the average cruiser-weight, I have always wondered why Pte. Dwan has not done better, but he should have an outstanding chance on this occasion of winning the Army senior event for the first time. Cpl. Curran and the unpredictable Cpl. Kerry will be the chief opposition.

Cpl. Farringdon is not a convincing heavy-weight, but unless Lt. J. D. Dennehy, the former Trinity man, is fighting fit, it is hard to see who else will get the better of Farringdon.

Forthcoming Dispersal Sales at Newmarket

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Tuesday Night.

THE entire stud of the late Lord Furness—mares, foals and yearlings—is to be offered at auction early next year, and a bloodstock market that has little resilience will be called on to absorb this after the sale of the late Sir Abe Bailey's entire stud of sires—old Son-in-Law excepted—mares, foals, yearlings, and horses in and out of training, which is due to take place at Newmarket in the first week in December. Even in ordinary times these would be big contingents to digest in addition to the ordinary seasonal drafts.

In good times the sale of the Gilltown Stud would have been an event that would have attracted world interest. The late peer formed it, with the assistance of Mr. George Smithwick, just after the last war, and considerations of price did not deter the owner or his manager from getting the best mares on the market. Sixteen thousand guineas for Salamandra was one of the prices paid.

It was an immense success from the very start, which can be seen from a study of the prices made by the yearlings season after season at Doncaster culminating four years ago in the 15,000 guineas which Miss Paget gave for the colt by Fairway out of Golden

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT

"THE BATTLE OF BALDOYLE"

TWELVE DUBLIN MEN CHARGED

KNUCKLEDUSTERS, DAGGER AND SWORD IN COURT

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MARTIN MAGUIRE.)

TWELVE young Dublin men, two of whom were in Army uniform, pleaded "Not guilty" to eight counts accusing them of conspiracy to assemble riotously at Baldoyle Racecourse on May 14, with intent to cause bodily harm to Daniel Towell, bookmaker's assistant, of Killarney street, Dublin, and Patrick Kinsella, Army private, Kevin street; with intent to murder these two men, and with causing them grievous bodily harm.

The accused men are:—George Hannigan, bookmaker, Dolphin road; James Winters, labourer, Coombe street; William Boyd, Army private, East Arran street; Joseph Craven, South James's street; Patrick Curtis, Army private, Downpatrick road, Crumlin; Christopher Donoghue, Ceanntsfort, Mount Brown; Patrick Murphy, labourer, Rialto Buildings, South Circular road; William Ryan, Garden lane; Laurence Campion, Ceanntsfort, Mount Brown; Kevin Walsh, Ashe street; Joseph Browne, Ashe street, and Patrick Kennealy, grocer's porter, "M" Block, Oliver Bond House, Bridgefoot street.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., Mr. P. J. McEnery, K.C., and Mr. G. Murnaghan (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) appeared for the prosecution. Mr. Felix Sherry (instructed by Mr. M. Noyk) appeared for Hannigan, and Mr. D. Bell (instructed by Mr. M. Noyk) represented the other defendants.

Mr. McCarthy said that the charges, by reason of the circumstances, were very grave, indeed. The evidence would show that on May 14 there existed in Dublin an organised body of men, under the control and guidance of one or more men, determined to defy the law. The evidence would show that the prime mover in the conspiracy was Hannigan, who was a bookmaker, and that all the other men were to some extent his creatures carrying out his plans.

Mr. McCarthy said that the two men who were injured at Baldoyle had been saved only by the best surgical talent that could be obtained in Dublin. On May 14 a number of men assembled in a licensed house in the Coombe, and then went in a taxi to Baldoyle. Murphy carried a stick. The party in the taxi was "Hannigan's Army," which was recruited from the Coombe. The "Chief of Staff," who mobilised the "troops" and gave them directions, was Winters.

Describing the scene at Baldoyle, Mr. McCarthy said that the Guards saw the crowd run in all directions. They then saw Towell run away covered with blood, followed by a man with a butcher's knife. After the riot the Guards arrested six men, and picked up from the field a sword, a home-made dagger, knuckledusters, tyre levers and a brake. Like a true general, Hannigan was seated in a motor car behind the people's stand.

KNIFE IN CHEST.

Towell was brought away from the battle, a knife having passed through his chest and out at the back. The knife had pierced the sac containing the heart, and even portion of the heart itself, though only slightly. It also pierced portion of the lungs.

Robert Carroll, publican, the Coombe, said that on May 14 a number of men came to his premises in groups. Winters was one of them.

Thomas Lowry, furnace man in the Coombe Hospital, said that between 2 and 3 p.m. on May 14 he saw a man using the public telephone in the hall of the hospital. Hannigan, who was in the hall at the time, came over to the witness and asked him to order three taxis. The man who was speaking on the 'phone ordered the taxis. Hannigan had often used the telephone before to order taxis.

Thomas Ralph, taxi driver, said that between 2.30 p.m. and 3 p.m. on May 14 he drove passengers from York street to the Coombe Hospital, where he was approached by Hannigan, who asked him to order three cars.

John Shelly, George Mullen, Edward Coleman and William Doyle, other taxi drivers, gave eviednce of taking parties of men from outside the Coombe Hospital to a public-house at Baldoyle.

"ON FOR TROUBLE"

Patrick Carroll, publican, Baldoyle, said that on the evening of May 14 he noticed a group of about twenty men in part of the premises after the arrival of three taxis. They seemed to be "on for trouble." One of them had the fork of a bicycle like that produced. Subsequently, when the men were walking down the road he noticed that nine or ten of them seemed to have something under their coats. He identified Kevin Walsh and Patrick Murphy, two of the accused men.

Guard Patrick Clifford (121 A) said that while on duty at the Coombe, opposite Carroll's public-house, about 2.30 p.m. on May 14, he saw about twenty men leave the publichouse in groups of two and three. Afterwards the witness saw Hannigan and Winters standing outside the Coombe Hospital. Hannigan called to Guard Brannagan who was with witness. At the Carmen's hall where a crowd had collected the accused man, Murphy, told witness that Guard Branagan had taken a stick from him and he wanted it back. Murphy had a stick with him.

The court adjourned until to-day at 11 a.m.

NEWSBOY INJURED

ACTION AGAINST CREAMERY COMPANY

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

Thomas McCarthy, Maglass West, Ballymacelligott, County Kerry, claimed damages against the Newmarket Dairy Co., Ltd., MacCurtain street, Cork, owners of the Ballydwyer Creamery, for injuries received at the creamery on February 7, 1938.

McCarthy, a boy who sells newspapers, was, according to the statement of claim, in the habit of calling daily to the creamery, and on February 7, 1938, he, as he had done on several occasions at the request of the engine driver, poured water into the soaker of a pump. His coat was caught in some unguarded machinery, and, in trying to free it, his right hand was caught in the cogs of a wheel, and three of his fingers were torn off.

The defendants denied that the boy ever had been requested to assist at the creamery, and said that, if he had, it was not with the knowledge or approval of the manager, and that it was not within the authority of any of the employées to make such a request. They pleaded contributory negligence; that the boy was a trespasser; that he voluntarily undertook the risks incidental to his being on the premises, and that if he attempted to pour water into the soaker at the request of their servants the injuries resulted through the act or omission of persons acting in common employment with him.

Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C.; Mr. Michael Binchy, K.C., and Mr. F. M. Neville (instructed by Mr. Edward F. Neville) appeared for Thomas McCarthy; and Mr. Lavery, K.C.; Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Mr. W. O'B. Fitzgerald (instructed by Messrs. H. P. F. Donegan and Son) for the defendant company.

The hearing had not concluded when the Court adjourned.

WORKMAN'S CLAIM FOR DAMAGES

(BEFORE THE PRESIDENT OF THE HIGH COURT AND A JURY.)

John Ryan, carpenter, Shinanagh, Ballyhea, Co. Cork, claimed damages against Thomas Thompson and Son, Ltd., engineers and contractors, Hanover Works, Carlow, for injuries suffered when a motor car, the property of the defendants, collided with him at Ballymanus terrace, Carlow, on August 8, 1939.

The defence was a denial of negligence and a plea of contributory negligence.

Mr. Michael Binchy, K.C., Mr. Roe, K.C., and Mr. Fleming (instructed by Mr. D. Fleming) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Lavery, K.C., Mr. Fawsitt, K.C., and Mr. Sherry (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) appeared for the defendants.

The hearing had not concluded when the Court adjourned.

"BLACK-OUT" ACCIDENT

DUBLIN CORPORATION'S APPEAL DISMISSED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE GAVAN DUFFY.)

An appeal of Dublin Corporation from a Circuit Court decree for £41 odd in favour of Miss Agnes Molloy, Spring Garden street, Dublin, was dismissed with costs.

Miss Molloy had claimed damages for injuries received when she stepped into an opening which had been made in the middle of the footpath near her house, for the purpose of laying main service pipes for the supply of water. She stated that on leaving her house shortly after 11 o'clock on the night of September 6, 1939—the first night of the "black-out" of the period—to see a girl friend home, she stepped into the trench.

For the Corporation it had been stated that a clear space of at least 2 feet 9 inches of footpath had been left between Miss Molloy's house and the other houses and the edge of the opening. All the usual precautions had been taken.

Mr. E. J. Kelly, K.C., and Mr. Gerard T. Burke (instructed by Mr. Ignatius Rice) appeared for the Corporation; and Mr. Charles S. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Clancy (instructed by Messrs. Reddin and Reddin) for Miss Molloy.

MAN'S FALL INTO EXCAVATION

DAMAGES AWARDED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

A settlement was announced in an action of Peter J. Byrne, "Maryville," Strand road, Bray, against Robert C. Williamson, Abbey quay, Enniscorthy, as contractor, and Viscount Lymington, Farleigh Manor, Hampshire, and Henry E. B. S. Irvine, Essex Court Temple, London, as trustees in possession of lands adjoining St. John street and Parnell road, Enniscorthy, for damages for injuries received by Mr. Byrne when he fell into an excavation of the lands, which were being cleared under the provisions of the Housing Act, 1931, on October 17, 1939.

The terms of the settlement were that judgment should be given for Mr. Williamson, with £100 costs; and that judgment should be given for Mr. Byrne against Viscount Lymington and Mr. Irvine for £425 and taxed costs.

Mr. Nolan-Whelan, K.C., and Mr. Kenneth Deale (instructed by Messrs. Cullen and O'Beirne) appeared for Mr. Byrne; Mr. Costello, K.C., Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., and Mr. Hogan (instructed by Messrs. John A. Sinnott and Co.) for Mr. Williamson; and Mr. Frank FitzGibbon, K.C., Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Mr. J. L. Esmond (instructed by Messrs. Huggard, Brennan and Godfrey) for the other defendants.

ALLEGED BREACH OF COVENANT

T.D. ASKS FOR AN INJUNCTION

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE BLACK.)

Patrick Belton, T.D., Belfield Park, Drumcondra, Dublin, claimed an injunction to restrain William Gordon Nicholl, coal merchant, Pearse street, Dublin, from subdividing the rooms of the dwellinghouse, Glenagerah Hall, Glenageary, Co. Dublin, held by Mr. Nicholl as tenant of Mr. Belton, and turning it into flats, and from using the house otherwise than as a private dwellinghouse.

In his statement of claim Mr. Belton alleged that Mr. Nicholl had committed breaches of covenants of the lease, and had altered the premises from a single dwellinghouse to a building containing four self-contained flats, and was carrying on the business of the letting of flats.

The defence was that the alterations were not a breach of covenant, a denial that Mr. Nicholl was carrying on any business in the dwellinghouse, and a plea that the alterations would improve the premises as a dwellinghouse and increase the value of Mr. Belton's reversion therein.

Mr. Michael J. Ryan, K.C., and Mr. Tobias (instructed by Messrs. W. J. Shannon and Co.) appeared for Mr. Belton; and Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., and Mr. W. L. Sainsbury (instructed by Mr. W. J. Keery) for Mr. Nicholl.

Opening the case, Mr. Ryan submitted that Mr. Nicholl, by converting the premises into a number of self-contained flats, had committed a breach of the covenant, which stipulated that they were not to be used for purposes other than a private dwellinghouse. It was not necessary for Mr. Belton to prove damage in order to obtain an injunction for breach of an express negative covenant contained in a lease.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.
